ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

How old is an antique? The word summons up mental pictures of suits of armor, chained Bibles and slim chairs that were made before the French Revolution.

But an antique can be fairly young. The typewriter on which I am setting down these words, for example, is not much older than I am, and it's an antique already. So are several other typewriters in this newsroom.

Victoria's cluster lights are only 50 years old, and they have been dignified as antiques.

If It Works—Obsolete

That's what happens in this age of rapid technological change. In some fields of manufacturing, progress is so rapid that a machine is out of date even before it goes into production.

A new proverb has been coined to describe this rapid aging process: "If it works, it's obsolete."

Then what is the use of making it? This is the question that pops into a simple mind. If you know the answer, send me a postcard.

No such difficulty plagued

When they were bought, the Colonist boasted what fine, modern lights they were.

Nobody said, "Oh, boy, look at these quaint lights we have with curlicues and knobs and all sorts of dandy tourist-attracting features."

Certainly not. They said: "Look how much light we can throw on the streets now."

Privilege of Climbing

Of course, this doesn't mean that I advocate that all our freight should go by sailing ship. I think a fleet of duds sailing ships would be profitable, with a cargo in the hold and the crew paying heavy fee for the privilege of climbing up in the rigging and hauling on frozen ropes.

But sailing ships, as the main carrier of goods on the sea, are gone, and nothing will bring them back.

As for cluster lights, they have a certain grace and nostalgia about them, and they do shed a certain amount of light. Not enough, some experts say.

If the people are sufficiently sentimental that they want to keep the clusters, and I think a properly-conducted public opinion poll might show overwhelming support of them, then why not keep the clusters, and put in some other kind of light as well?

It might cost a few dollars extra. But if the new lights can be placed in such a way as to avoid a look of tangle and mess, and if the people really want to keep the clusters, why not humor them?

Cake with Egg in It Upsets Some People

"Dear Dr. Molner: Why should vitamins B1, B3, B12 and B6 cause such reactions as a rash on the stomach and slight dizziness and nerves let given by hypodermic?"—Mrs. R. W.

Because sensitivities (allergies) are so variable! For example, some people are allergic to eggs—eat a piece of cake or a cookie, containing egg, and they break out in a rash, or wheeze. Yet sometimes these same people can touch eggs (as an egg shampoo) without suffering any consequences.

Hence with vitamins, or other materials, there can be an allergic reaction if they are injected by needle, yet may cause no difficulty if taken by mouth.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I'm 62 and my breasts are enlarging. I did wear a 38-B. Now I wear a 40-D. I'm 5 feet 5". Is there something I can take to decrease them? Please let me know what to do."—B. V.

Well, for a quick guess, I'd say maybe the best thing you can do is add one more inch. How much do you weigh? Then maybe I could just reply, "Go on a diet."

Note to Mrs. F. M.: There is no way to remove a cataract without an operation. Be thankful that cataract operations are so successful.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you discuss the condition called chronic inflammation of the urethra? It is something I never heard of before, and doctors don't seem to discuss it."—Mrs. F. B.

Doctors do discuss it, because it is fairly common among women. However, it doesn't make very good drawing room conversation, nor is it one of the "dramatic" diseases, so it doesn't get a lot of publicity. The urethra is the tube descending from the urinary bladder. If for one reason or another, the tube becomes inflamed, the result can be (in varying degrees) formation of scar tissue, or even a stricture or contraction of the tube at some point.

Rail Chiefs Meet Ministers

OTTAWA (CP)—Railway government talks leading to ward a new round of railway labor negotiations are expected to continue in Ottawa, informants said Thursday.

For the second day in a row, presidents N. R. Crump of the CPR and Donald Gordon of the CNR met the three-man cabinet team that has been working on the railway problem.

Further meetings of the railway presidents with the ministers—Labor Minister Starn, Transport Minister Balcer and Postmaster-General William Hamilton—are expected to take place before the union negotiators are summoned to Ottawa, the sources indicated.

whether a settlement was im- bring about "continued negotia- minent. Mr. Diefenbaker said tions" between the railways the government is trying to and union leaders.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in the Commons Thurs- day he hoped an agreement will be reached to prevent a transcontinental tieup of the major railways.

The non-operating workers— all those who do not actually run trains—plan to walk off their jobs at 8 a.m. local stand- ing time May 16 in support of their demands for a 14-cent-an- hour pay boost.

ERIC CHARMAN OF FAIRFIELD REALTY IS HOLDING ANOTHER

OPEN HOUSE — THIS SATURDAY

11 A.M. - 4 P.M.

1977 FAIRFIELD ROAD

This choice property has never changed hands. It was built in 1933 for the express purpose of entertaining, and regardless of expense. This outstanding property is worth visiting, even if only to inspect the fabulous drawing room which undoubtedly ranks among the finest in the province. There are five bedrooms and adequate plumbing facilities. The unsurpassed views encompass the Straits, Sooke Hills, the City and the Mainland coastal mountain range. The exterior is deceiving in that it does not convey a true impression of the magnificent interior. Get there—this will soon sell at the ridiculously low price of $29,750 ($10,740 1/3) with easy terms.

P.S. My dear friend, Miss Agatha Ogilthorpe, will be there to serve you tea and loaded crumpets! (I would have been there—but unfortunately I fell off my horse and suffered a broken monie!

Won't Leave Cuba to Reds Restraint Not Inexhaustible

'Failure Proves Falsity'

UNITED NATIONS (CP) —United States Ambassador Adlai Stevenson declared Thursday night that the initial failure of the rebel invasion of Cuba proves the falsity of Soviet charges that the U.S. committed aggression against the island country.

In a speech to the United Nations political committee, Stevenson declared:

"Let me just ask—if this was a United States military operation, do you think it would succeed or fail? How long do you think Cuba, a small, almost defenceless island, could resist the military power of the United States?"

"Perhaps the best evidence of the falsity of the shrill charges is the melancholy fact that this blow for freedom has not yet succeeded."

Stevenson spoke after the Soviet Union charged him with raising the issue of international communism to cloak U.S. ambitions.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin made the charge before the United Nations political committee.

He accused the U.S., Guatemala and Nicaragua of supplying the bases for the training and supply of arms to the anti-Castro rebels who invaded Cuba, but said the U.S. was the chief organizer.

In the face of reports that the anti-Castro forces had lost their initial battle, the U.S. took a stand against a Mexican resolution calling on all nations to refuse aid to anti-Castro fighters.

Nehru Accuses U.S. Of Causing Trouble

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Prime Minister Nehru charged yesterday that the United States fostered and encouraged the invasion of Cuba.

He told the Indian upper house of Parliament that American "involvement" in Cuba might boomerang around the world and cause new difficulties in the East-West quarrel over Laos which "is on the verge of settlement."

MOSCOW (UPI)—Russia, busy cheering the Fidel Castro victory over invaders in Cuba, last night ignored President Kennedy's warning that American restraint in intervening in Cuba "is not inexhaustible."

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—More than 100 supporters and opponents of Fidel Castro paraded, chanted, and hurled imprecations last night outside United Nations headquarters.

Relations Continue With Cuba

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated Thursday that Canada will continue normal diplomatic and trade relations with Cuba.

Opposition Leader Pearson had asked whether in view of Mr. Diefenbaker's statement to the House Wednesday such ties would be maintained.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Wednesday that international communism had established a bridgehead in Cuba from which it could penetrate Latin America.

He said yesterday that Canada has endeavored to conduct normal relations with other countries no matter how much it might disapprove of their political philosophies.

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI)—A Cuban airliner carrying 22 persons on a flight from Czechoslovakia to Havana was seized by the U.S. Air Force yesterday when it made an unauthorized landing at the U.S. air base here despite radioed warnings to find an alternate refuelling stop or face seizure.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Attorney General Robert Kennedy said yesterday he did not know of any violations of the U.S. neutrality laws involved in the invasion of Cuba by revolutionaries who may have been in the U.S.

More than 1,600 foreign films, most of them American-made, were imported by Indian exhibitors last year.

Kennedy Assures U.S. Security Comes First

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—President Kennedy said Thursday the United States does not intend to abandon Cuba to the Communists.

In a speech to the annual meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, he said unilateral intervention by the U.S. in Cuba following the invasion by anti-Castro forces would have been contrary to its traditions and its international obligations.

"But let the record show that our restraint is not inexhaustible," he added.

"Should it ever appear that

The Hour Is Late

"The evidence is clear and the hour is late. And our Latin friends will have to face the fact that we cannot postpone any longer the real issue of survival itself."

Kennedy said that should that time ever come, the United States does not intend to be lectured on "intervention" by the Soviet Union, whose character "was stamped for all time on the bloody streets of Budapest."

Then, in an apparent reference to Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's claim of the defeat

Debris of History

The message from these places is that "the complacent, the self-indulgent, the soft societies are to be swept away with the debris of history."

"Only the strong, only the industrious, only the visionary can survive."

"No greater task faces this nation or its administration. No other challenge is more demanding of our every effort and energy. Too long we have fixed our eyes on traditional military needs, on armies prepared to cross borders or missiles poised for flight. Now it should be clear that this is no longer enough—that our security may be lost without the firing of a single missile or the crossing of a single border."

"Let me then make clear as the president of the United States that I am determined upon our system's survival and success, regardless of the cost and regardless of the peril."

President Kennedy spoke at a gathering which two years

Rebels Visit White House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy conferred here Wednesday with members of the Cuban revolutionary council led by Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, the White House disclosed yesterday.

The anti-Castro leaders spent about 45 minutes at the White House, and then departed for an unannounced destination.

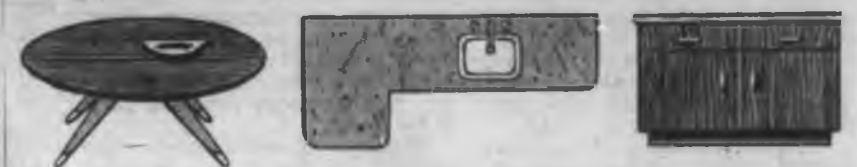

Dozen Put to Death By Firing Squads

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI)—Cuban firing squads yesterday put to death 12 persons, including an American citizen and the man who had legalized military executions for the Castro regime.

The official radio in Havana said in a broadcast that seven persons were shot there at dawn. Three more were executed in Pinar del Rio province and two in Camaguey province.

A total of 29 have been executed in the three days since anti-Castro rebels invaded. The seven in Havana were executed in the bullet-pocked moat of La Cabana fortress as "counter-revolutionaries" accused of plotting to assassinate Premier Castro and to commit sabotage with support from the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency.

Where the Future Lies

THE treasures of the earth are man-made, discovered or fashioned by human hands. By themselves they are of no value until put to use or created for satisfaction of the spirit. Natural resources, for instance, about which one hears so often, benefit no one while embedded in their natural state.

The true worth of a nation therefore lies in its people. That is so obvious it would seem it could not be forgotten, yet it is. Only the human mind and character can bring to fruition the latent riches of a country or the qualities which must mark its progress if it is to go ahead.

This was the theme of Governor-General Vanier's address to the nation this week, voiced before the kind of audience which is best equipped to further his thoughts—the annual Canadian Press gathering. He reminded his listeners that the oft-repeated view that Canada cannot help having a great future because of its beneficent gifts of nature was a misleading generalization. These gifts are static until developed by the wit and ingenuity of the Canadian people, and advantage taken of them for the weal of the nation at large.

It is what Canadians will make of these natural assets that will count most, the direction to which their use is put, and the safeguarding of the human element in their production and application.

The governor-general in effect was emphasizing the moral values implicit in the growth of any nation. It is the individual quality of people that counts most, and the collective character that they foster and cherish. Nor is size the criterion. Sheer natural wealth may burgeon a nation but it is the ethical standards of a people, their innate asset of character, that determines their real place in the world.

It cannot be denied that in great measure the current is a material age, with a loosening and change of values that tends to put physical resources above human resources. General Vanier's call was thus for a return to the personal virtues without which no nation can fulfil its proper destiny or its obligations to the human world at large.

That means priority of development in the realms of education, technical and professional training, and in the ethical content of the individual character. People fashion for themselves the kind of society they live in.

Sincere, At Least

THERE is no indication that any significant number of British Columbians have heeded government advice and built concrete-block shelters in their homes to provide protection from radioactive "fallout" should a nuclear attack ever be launched against this continent. Perhaps the possibility of such an attack has seemed too remote to most householders to justify an expenditure of several hundred dollars; perhaps few have been convinced of the efficiency of such shelters, and perhaps government exhortations dwindled too quickly in the face of public indifference and even scoffing.

But there is increasing evidence that the federal and provincial governments were sincere, at least, in their advice: they are going to have their own fallout shelters, to ensure continuation of control in case of attack. Prime Minister Diefenbaker has announced that tenders will be called soon for construction of shelters for the British Columbia, Alberta, Ontario and Quebec governments, and later for the governments of the other provinces.

There is no doubt that the federal government is planning or building a similar shelter for itself, although it has denied that an underground structure at Carp, near Ottawa, reportedly being built at a cost of more than $20,000,000, is for this purpose. Even at the lowest level of government, there is proof that thought is being given to continuing administration in an emergency. Members of British Columbia city councils have been asked to name citizens to take their places should they lose their lives.

One can reasonably wonder what might be left to govern after a few days or weeks of nuclear warfare. But the construction of government shelters seems to provide some answer: it demonstrates that the governments of Canada consider themselves well advised by their experts that survival of the nation is possible. And in doing so it brings home with more impact than previously their sincerity in advising citizens to look to their own protection.

Naval and Military Rote

IT IS the rote of the services, and an asset to the general well-being of the armed forces, that officers are moved at stated intervals from post to post. In this way they become versatile, acquire varied experience, and imbue their commands with fresh and invigorating influence. Each high-level change carries with it its own patina.

Since this is a naval and garrison town these changes are a constant part of the local scene. They never fail to be of interest, however, because of the closeness of association that exists between the civilian community and the service counterpart in its midst.

Only recently the PPCLI recorded a movement of ranking personnel when Lt.-Col. J. C. Allen was posted to the true commission in Indo-China, and Lt.-Col. R. F. Bruce took over command of the 1st Battalion of this famous regiment. Each in turn has moved upwards in his chosen profession, stamping his personality on the men he leads and promoting the efficiency of the unit. The public Trooping the Color ceremony by the Princess Patricia's next month will demonstrate anew how well they carried out their responsibilities.

A naval change of similar substance is in the offing with the announcement that Commodore H. V. W. Groos will relinquish the Naval command and assume new responsibilities in the Montreal area. His place will be filled by Captain J. A. Charles, a former commandant of Royal Roads and currently commander of an RCN escort squadron here. Both these officers reflect also the high calibre of the men who occupy senior posts in the armed forces of Canada, and of the reassurance that may be drawn from knowledge of this fact.

If there be argument about the role Canada should play in international defence there can be none as to the quality of the senior serving officers upon whose skill and resource this nation would depend in emergency.

Interpreting the News

Prevention the Aim

By PHIL NEWSON, UPI Foreign News Analyst

EVERY Communist member of Parliament must bear in mind that he is not a legislator seeking agreement with other legislators but a party agitator sent into the enemy camp to execute party decisions.

From Yalta through the current atomic test talks, the world has learned to watch the execution of this Communist party dogma, adopted by the second Comintern Congress on Aug. 2, 1920.

Political sophisticates look for Russia and its friends to use negotiations not to reach agreement, but to prevent their opponents from getting anywhere.

Soviet tactics in last week's UN filibuster against sealing South Korean representatives in the debate on Korean reunification therefore cause little surprise.

But the leading role of Afghanistan and Saudi Arabia in support of such tactics was unexpected.

For 4½ hours, eight delegates—all from the Soviet bloc except the representatives of Afghanistan, Saudi Arabia and Sudan—kept the General Assembly's political committee from voting on whether the South Koreans should be seated immediately.

Five attempts to force adjournment without a vote failed. Efforts to compel a two-thirds rule or delay the vote on a technicality failed.

The spectacle led Bruno Bohladi of Chad, a newcomer to the United Nations, to wonder aloud "Why are we wasting our time on all these points of order? I am disappointed by the manner in which the United Nations does its work."

Charles W. Yost, former U.S. ambassador to Morocco, was called to order for saying: "It seems to me to be quite clear that a minority of this committee is trying to prevent this question from coming to a vote."

Soviet Ambassador Valerian A. Zorin appeared to enjoy the exhibition, probably recalling another dictum of the Second Comintern:

"Parliamentarianism . . . from the outside seems to be an organization of the 'popular will' standing outside classes, but in essence an instrument of oppression and subjection."

When the minority ran out of points of order, the committee voted to seat the South Koreans: 44 to 15 with 13 abstentions.

Thinking Aloud Soviet Space Program

. . . of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

A DISTINGUISHED lady visitor has been in town to find that Victoria "is a little bit of old Scotland." The trees, the scenery and the climate are akin to those of her native land. I have my doubts about the climate—we have the best of it here, I think—but these observations are worth noting.

They are somewhat of a departure from the norm, you see. Even though a piper was wont to greet tourists as they answered the call to follow the birds, the lotus attraction was contained in the refrain of "a little bit of Old England." There might be 2,000 Macs in the telephone book but patently the priority belonged to the crumpets and doughnuts.

Now of course the cry, in tones of complaint, is that Victoria is becoming "a little bit of old America."

Some day perhaps our town will become known as a little bit of itself, without outside connotation. Too much borrowing from elsewhere, either of captions or of conveniences, is apt to submerge its identity. It will become a copy instead of an original.

And, perforce, it is actually itself even if some physical developments are a disappointment to be borne only by recalling the history and setting which reminded the Scottish lady of her own countryside. Our town cannot help but grow in harmony with its North American environment; other towns no matter where followed the same geographical circumstance.

The fondness for citing Victoria as a place of "old" this or that, also, is not as complimentary as it might seem. It suggests that time has stood still in Victoria, scarcely an inviting thought for any city in the twentieth century.

For the most part this "little bit" business is purely a mental and passing recreation. I fancy, apt to be dispelled on closer acquaintance. People on a fleeting visit, or even old-time residents who have known other places, find some vistas that remind them of some other one and naturally enough the one they know best—their homeland.

Yours truly never drives through Saanichton and looks down towards the water, for instance, without likening the scene to some pastoral stretch of the Scottish border, although by reverse token he has likened some Scottish scenes to those not far from this neighborhood.

If an Oriental visitor were to be transplanted to San Francisco's Grant Street he might, happening he didn't notice the false building fronts, term that town "a little bit" of Hong Kong or Canton or Peking, for all this writer knows; and the latter has heard Victorians familiar with Hong Kong remark on its scenic resemblance to their own town. Such is the pattern of people and places.

Just the other night a friend who visited Switzerland not too long ago remarked that some pleasant valleys brought him of his own Vancouver Island.

So this "little bit of" reference can be confusing and not mean all that it sounds, although if modern architecture is a criterion the day is dawning when every big city will be a little bit of every other big city, so much does the sameness of design run.

There are people as well as places, of course, and some towns may cast an aura over the populace so that they are significantly reminiscent of other towns. Our own fair city, however, has grown cosmopolitan with the post-war years and one might pick out, by tongues and accents alone, little bits of all kinds of civic society.

Leaving aside the superficialities, however, people are very much people no matter where they are, which in itself engenders this temptation to liken one place with another.

Nevertheless the "little bit" can be overcome. Perhaps we should have a new slogan: "Come to Victoria, no little bit here." After all, we now have Captain Discovery, and since he is indigenous to local imagination, there can't be a little bit of him anywhere else.

Exercise in Power Politics

By JOHN DAVY, from London

MAJOR Yuri Alekseyevich Gagarin, the first man in space, took 108 minutes to circle the earth, from blast off to landing. So he travelled some 14,000 times faster than the first man to do so, Sebastian del Cano, the sixteenth century navigator in the Spanish ship Vitoria, who took two years, 11 months, 16 days.

This leap in speed reflects the fantastic pace of technical advance which is shaping the twentieth century. The first flight round the world was 30 years ago. The American, Wiley Post, took eight days, 16 hours and 15 minutes—passing, incidentally, over Moscow and Novosibirsk.

The first man-made object to orbit the earth, Sputnik 1, was launched only 3½ years ago. Already, though, rockets have been round the moon and back, out towards Venus, and into orbit round the sun. Dogs, fruit flies, mice and monkeys have made space journeys and returned to hold press conferences. Where is this headlong advance leading us?

Major Gagarin's trip into space was quite certainly a calculated gamble. Five of the four-and-a-half ton capsules have been tested in the past year, but recovery mechanisms failed in two cases. Two dogs and a dummy man were incinerated in re-entry into the earth's atmosphere.

In any normal, earthbound enterprise, the life of a man would not be risked without several more tests. But political rivalry between Russia and America has become the driving force of the space race. Undoubtedly, then, the Russian program has been rushed in recent months to forestall the Americans. And the gamble has come off.

The Russians will now reap the full political and propaganda rewards, which, especially in less sophisticated parts of the world, will be considerable.

Even in the technically advanced West, though, the Russian feat is being rightly hailed as a magnificent achievement of applied science. It is true that the Russians started building large rockets, with the initial help of German rocket experts, immediately after the end of the last war (while the Americans made a much later start). The Russians set their sights, from the beginning, on giant launchers, and Major Gagarin was boosted into space by a rocket with 17 years of development behind it.

However, the sheer organization of a project of this size calls for great administrative and technical competence. One of the most striking things about Soviet space exploits is that they show there must be some administrators of genius in Russia. It may well be that a very high proportion of the most able men have been involved in the space programs, while the agricultural program, and simple things like distribution of consumer goods have languished in middle.

What will be the next steps? Putting men into space is enormously expensive—and no nation will sustain such a program unless either it has money to burn (which Russia has not) or it expects rich political or other rewards.

Few people believe that putting men into space has any military significance. They are far more usefully employed on earth, where it is less difficult to keep them alive. Thus it seems certain that the Russian space program will continue to be carefully planned as an instrument of political and propaganda warfare.

There would seem to be little point in further flights of one man for one circuit of the earth. Animal passengers will do as well for further testing of the equipment. However, we may look forward to longer orbits of several hours or even days, and to trips by two or three men.

After that, the next really spectacular feat of manned flight will be a trip round the moon.

Such a trip would take many days, and need very large reserves of food, water, air and fuel for course correction and safe return. It seems a formidable trip for a solitary man, and if sufficiently large rockets are available, two men may go. This seems unlikely to happen for at least three or four years.

Within the next two years, though, there is every chance that the Russians will try to land scientific instruments on the moon. Some of their writers and scientists have already discussed small tank-like robots probing and photographing, and transmitting lunar close-ups to earth.

For the scientists, this would be much more informative than orbiting men, since the moon is the most accessible and at the same time among the most mysterious cosmic puzzles.

Despite the pronouncements of some eminent men, Major Gagarin's flight will not add very greatly to scientific knowledge in any strict sense. It proves that man can withstand the combination of great stress at blast-off, prolonged weightlessness, a weird, cramped environment, and the shocks of re-entry, without cracking up physically or mentally. But this does no more than confirm what biologists have confidently predicted.

The Russians will in due course produce films of the feat—including, possibly, records of the space-man's expression and speech during take-off and in orbit. Gagarin is a very brave man, and he has fully earned his place in the history books. For many years, he will be sought out to tell his story, and he will be displayed like something in a zoo.

Amid all the excitement, it is perhaps worth remembering that his flight was only the beginning of what seems likely to become a severe ordeal. He will be the focus of a high-powered publicity exercise for weeks or months. It is possible to acclaim the technical triumph and the human courage and yet remember that the driving force behind the whole exploit is, first and foremost, a quite cold-blooded exercise in power politics.

Ban-the-Bomb Marchers

A Negative Movement

By DUART FARQUHARSON, from London

THE mother of parliaments, of common law, it appears, is now established as the mother of mass protest against the "nuclear insanity" of the second half of the twentieth century.

Once again with ban-the-bomb we have had the Aldermaston march, a tradition not as old, scarcely as venerable, but now even better known than the Oxford-Cambridge boat race. For the fourth year the marchers have multiplied at home; abroad they have given birth to little Aldermastons in West Germany, Canada and the United States.

It is time to re-examine the question: what does the apparent success of the campaign for nuclear disarmament mean in terms of contemporary Britain?

First, the marchers themselves. They are easy enough to ridicule and make light of if not to ignore. The 30,000-odd stragglers who poured with the rain into Trafalgar Square Easter Monday did not look like the thinking people of Britain their organizers claim them to be. Rather they looked like an unwieldy collection of youth groups strung together by a few left-wing Socialists, fellow-travellers, pacifists and Communists; which is what the vast majority, notwithstanding the reluctance of the minority to admit it, in fact, are.

Some of the marchers are a politically-minded: they desire as much to get rid of Gaitskell as to get rid of the bomb. Many know nothing of politics and don't want to know. Some would support NATO if it restricted itself to conventional weapons. Others believe Britain should have no defensive alliances.

All that unites them is the emotional appeal of the simplified slogan, Ban the Bomb: the conviction that marching under the banner is the one way ordinary men and women can show that they mean it. Though specific proposals are made and debated the movement is essentially negative: it campaigns against nuclear strategy without any constructive analysis of what this may involve.

The major success of the campaign, initiated from the shabby east end London offices in 1957, has been the Aldermaston march itself. Three years ago few took it seriously; now newspapers and public alike very much do. People who consider the marchers misguided nevertheless pay tribute to their sincerity. This year Randolph Churchill, in the News of the World, was almost alone in insulting them.

More than a gigantic spectacle of non-conformity the march has had effects on the British body politic. The New Statesman, while opposing the unilateralists' case, credits Aldermaston with helping to bring home to the public the dangers of brinkmanship, the vulnerability of the island to nuclear attack, the necessity of a British initiative to break the cold war deadlock and with preventing the development here of a war hysteria.

While it is difficult to show any direct effect on government policy such is not the case with the opposition parties. Leaving aside for a moment the unilateralist victory at last year's Labor party conference it should be noted that both the Liberal and Parliamentary Labor parties have opted to oppose the retention of Britain's independent nuclear deterrent while keeping faith with NATO.

Many Conservative backbenchers agree with them. The Observer and Guardian newspapers, which earlier argued this course if other countries would join with Britain in a so-called non-nuclear club, have now dropped the condition.

The defeat of the leadership-backed compromise defence formula at the Labor party conference is of course claimed as a major victory. It would be wrong however to conclude that a majority of the Labor movement had adopted a "no American hands" frame of mind.

The Scarborough result was inextricably tied up with the personal animosities and anti-Gaitskell intrigues which now dominate the Labor party. It represented not a shift in opinion—the number of defence left-wingers has long remained fairly constant within the party—but a shift in power, the biggest trade union block vote swinging for the first time against the leadership.

From the scant evidence of public opinion polls which exists we may conclude that Englishmen like Canadians are naturally uneasy to boast the balance of nuclear terror. But more important they are acutely conscious of a heritage of greatness and too confident of their ability to influence their own destiny to contract out of the struggle.

Bigger Problem

If the number of letters you have received regarding Victoria's cluster lights is any indication of the amount of thought being given to this "controversial" subject, then I am truly amazed. People will bestir themselves from in front of their TV sets to take sides in an issue that is of little or no consequence and remain completely apathetic, or so it would appear, to the really important questions plaguing this troubled world.

It hardly seems necessary to name some of them, but perhaps I should, briefly, for the edification of those so worried about light bulbs. What about the very real danger that within the lifetime of many Canadians living today, the world could very well be engulfed in the rising tide of humanity unless some effective measure is taken, and taken soon, to stem the world's increasing population? Misery is compounded on misery for the greater number of the peoples of the world while the more fortunate of us sit by our TVs mesmerized by the style of Elizabeth Taylor's hair-do. Complacently, we look on, some of us not even doing that any more, as our "enlightened" leaders spend $14,000,000 an hour for armaments, count less millions more to get into space, and yet over a billion people lay themselves down to sleep each night hungry.

Against Parking Lot

The Colonist says that as a candidate for the Esquimalt-Saanich by-election, Reeve Chatterton will press for provision by the federal government of off-street parking space for 1,500 federal civil servants.

With the world on the verge of war, with 700,000 unemployed, millions in debt, 1,200 a year committing suicide, millions on tranquilizers and alcohol, Mr. Chatterton plans a parking lot to aid in the administration of the social order that has a lot to do with the misery and poverty that exists.

He really has the interests of the people at heart.

School Bylaw

In a few weeks time ratepayers in School District 63 will be called again to the polls to vote on a fourth school bylaw. This time the bylaw must be passed. The schools cannot be expected to continue in operation under the present overcrowded conditions.

The school board has done a tremendous job in reconciling the many conflicting points of view in the district. The plan they are now proposing is a sound one. It will look after immediate needs and at the same time will form the nucleus of a properly organized and well integrated school system which can be expanded as the need arises.

All irrelevant arguments which have contributed to the defeat of previous bylaws must be put aside. There is only one issue to be decided and it has only one answer. Schools are needed now and we have no choice but to build them.

For those who are concerned about costs it must be remembered that of the $675,000 required for the building program, approximately $508,000 or 75 per cent will be paid by the provincial government. The cost to the school district will be about $169,000 or 25 per cent of the total. This will amount to less than a mill or $5 on a taxable assessment of $5,000, less than 10 cents a week.

Surely we can afford to pay this much to ensure that our children receive a proper education.

S. P. OAKES.

Different Abroad?

When the campaign for humane slaughter of food animals was under way, members of Parliament reported it was the most widely and strongly supported of any they remembered. Therefore, it would seem that few Canadians would support a move to introduce into Canada a spectacle built around the torture killing of bulls and horses solely for amusement.

Why, then, do many travel tours planned by Canadians include attendance at a bullfight? Why do we support abroad what we would condemn at home? Does distance change the character of cruelty?

Mountain View

We visit Mountain View Home every week and find the men happy and contented always. Mr. and Mrs. Stothard have maintained a high degree of happiness and contentment for the inmates, and have given them individual attention when necessary. Even the men in good health often need assistance, such as help in getting dressed and so on. If they are ill they are tenderly cared for by nurses and orderlies. It is a home away from home and they will be greatly disturbed if moved. In fact we understand most of them do not want to go to the Sunset Lodge. We hope the city council will take a second look at the proposition of moving the men.

The cost to the city is negligible compared with the happiness of these men who have been citizens of Victoria for many years.

IAIN MACLEOD

Statecraft in Africa

Macleod on Verge
Of Great Triumph

By PHILIP NYKON

LONDON (TNS)—British Colonial Secretary Iain Norman Macleod may be on the threshold of his greatest triumph in colonial statecraft. Within weeks, I predict, this cherub-faced master of mediation will be able to report a concerted movement toward racial moderation by African leaders in three key territories.

This new concord may transform the future for 15,000,000 people of all races in territories of Kenya, Uganda and Nyasaland.

And it may provide a key to the more difficult peaceful transformation of the Rhodesias.

Credit for the new mood must be shared by a man who has become the closest African exponent of Macleod's ideas for multi-racial development in Africa—Julius Nyerere, chief minister of Tanganyika.

For it was the cordial settlement of the problem of Tanganyika's constitutional future that set the new mood in East and Central Africa.

Even Jomo "Burning Spear" Kenyatta, the man Britain says masterminded the seven-year Mau Mau rising in Kenya, apparently accepts the new mood.

Of the new, African-ruled Kenya, Jomo pledged: "There will be no color bar as it has been practised against us."

Of the white men he said: "I am not and never have been an enemy of Europeans. I spent many years in England, and still have many friends there."

And a little wistfully—he said of Nyerere's Tanganyika: "There everyone worked together."

In turbulent Nyasaland, the new mood speaks through the once-fervent Hastings Banda. Announcing that his Malawi party would back European, Asian and colored as well as

The full-scale movement of troops and weapons from Portugal to Angola may be the start of a new and tragic act in the history of that West African territory.

Portugal, oldest, largest and last of the great European colonial powers, appears determined that nothing short of force will shatter its empire.

But the winds of change are penetrating the tight wall of isolation thrown up around the giant, 481,000 square mile colony.

Portugal
Adamant

The first waves of violence that broke out following the Santa Maria incident two months ago may be checked. But to outsiders the chances of holding the forces of self-determination in check seem as slim as they were in Algeria, Kenya or the Congo.

Portugal has maintained a firm hold on Angola almost since the first Portuguese navigators landed there 10 years before Columbus discovered America. The colony's 150,000 whites, some of them descended from the original settlers, control a largely illiterate native population of 4,500,000.

But history has been moving quickly to the north of Angola in the former Belgian Congo. Inevitably, some of the heady spirit of the independence has seeped across the border.

Portugal now charges that "agents from the Congo" are responsible for terrorist attacks in northern Angola. Congolese officials claim thousands of Angolans have fled to the Congo to escape Portuguese persecution.

The extent of unrest within is clouded by censorship. Hundreds of casualties have been reported, but no overall figures are known.

Canadian Law
Used in Seattle

SEATTLE (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eckren of Blaine were awarded $24,222 by a Superior Court jury Wednesday for injuries suffered in a collision with a Seattle car in British Columbia Sept. 8, 1958.

The judgment was against Mr. and Mrs. George Henry, who live in the swank Broadmoor section of Seattle. Henry is president of the Clipper Oil Company.

The Eckrens were passengers in an automobile driven by their son-in-law, Calvin Johnson, at the time of the collision 42 miles from Hope, B.C.

Damages were awarded under Canadian law, but the case was tried here because the principals are Washington residents. A Canadian barrister and solicitor advised Superior Judge F. A. Walters-kirchen on points of the Canadian law in which contributory negligence is taken into consideration in fixing damages.

Troops, Arms Bound for Angola
May Open New African Tragedy

Portuguese forces in Angola before the current air-sea buildup were estimated anywhere from 7,000 to more than 20,000 men. Two troopships were bound for the colony Thursday and plans for five other sailings are reported.

Shortly after the present troubles began, the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Angola issued a pastoral letter condemning activities of the terrorists but adding guardedly that "legitimate and just aspirations deserve to be taken into consideration."

It is against this background that the United Nations General Assembly—over the bitter objections of Portugal—this week takes up discussion of a resolution calling for an inquiry into treatment of the Angolans under Portuguese rule.

Strongman Premier Antonio Salazar—under pressure for reform at home as well as in the colonies—is unlikely to heed any UN demands. But he will not be able to ignore the terrorist bullets.

Eichmann Claim:

I Had Jewish Kin

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Adolf Eichmann, accused of being the mass murderer of 6,000,000 Jews, pictured himself to the world yesterday as a humane man who had Jewish relatives and who had no personal part in driving Jews to Nazi gas chambers.

Denying he was anti-semitic, on a tape recorder, which he dictated after his capture was released by authorities. Sections of the text were played in court Wednesday. The complete text, in German, fills six volumes weighing nearly 10 pounds. Eichmann's lengthy statement indicated what his main line of defence will be: that he was only an insignificant official, that orders for Jewish extermination came from Hitler himself, that Eichmann was simply a transportation officer and that he had no personal part in the killing of Jews.

ADMITS HELPING

However, he admitted "assisting" in carrying out the Nazi master plan for wiping out the Jewish people and said, "In this I was obviously guilty."

The Eichmann deposition gave some curious insights into his family life. He said he was brought up by his stepmother. He said she had a number of Jewish relatives who were therefore his. He said he also had Jewish relatives in Hungary.

His testimony singled out two of these Jewish kinsfolk—"Aunt Dorschi" and "Uncle Fritz." Eichmann said he had even gone so far as to allow the half-Jewish daughter of the couple to emigrate to Switzerland in 1943 or 1944.

He also claimed he was friends with a Jewish boy in grade school in Linz, Austria, and they used to visit each other's homes.

Eichmann also said both his father and his stepmother had given him a strict Christian upbringing which had nothing in common with the anti-semitic principles that Hitler imposed on Germany.

Bad Breaks

Israelis Fear World Is Losing Interest

JERUSALEM (TNS)—Israelis are worried about the bad breaks the Eichmann trial is getting.

They are impatient with the long-windedness of Attorney-General Gideon Hausner, a legalistic bricklayer who piles on argument after argument in an attempt to impress the court with the sheer weight of his citations.

LOST ATTENTION

They are apprehensive that Russia's man in space and the Cuban invasion have drawn world attention away from the trial and that interest in it must now be awakened anew.

After all, the complaint is heard, one man in space is worth two men in a glass box. On top of all this comes another sensational spy case, the

Israel Shows Armed Might For Holiday

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israel yesterday celebrated its "Bar Mitzvah" coming of age as a 13-year-old nation by staging a muscle flexing military parade close to the Arab Jordan border in defiance of a United Nations Security Council ruling.

Marching to such airs as "The Stars and Stripes Forever," the parade of 4,000 Israeli soldiers—men and women—displayed American, British, French and Belgian heavy armament through the Israeli sector of divided Jerusalem.

In a last-minute concession, the route was cut and the troops passed only through areas which could not be seen from the Jordan section.

Beer is charged with being an agent of a foreign power. Normally, Israelis would take this leak in security in stride.

But these are not normal times. Israel is now engaged in an historic trial intended to prove to the world that it is a sovereign nation able to defend the interests of its citizens.

TRIAL AIM

One of the aims of the Eichmann trial is to notify any attacker that he will not get away with it.

Spies will undoubtedly be punished, the argument runs, but meanwhile they serve to cast a shadow over the proceedings at the Eichmann court-house, which are important to the development of Israel's status.

Father of 16 Dies In Highway Crash

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—A man whose wife had their 16th child in a Nipigon, Ont., hospital Wednesday was one of two men killed Thursday in a highway collision near here.

Death of Francis Fowler, 39, of Red Rock, Ont., left 10 boys and six girls—ranging in age from one day to 17 years—without a father.

MERCURY OUTBOARD SKIING FOURS

Mercury fours give you economy and performance that big-bore 2-cylinder motors can't match... plus the extra pull-power, dependability and smoothness of 4-cylinder-in-line design! Try the Merc 500—most powerful four in Mercury history! Here's a full 50 horsepower in a slim, trim, economical package. You get maximum power, minimum weight. Only Mercury Fours are backed by 12 years of experience. They are the choice of champions. Fixed-jet carburetors eliminate high speed needle valve adjustments... fuel economy throttle linkage yields up to 80% more mileage at cruising speed... safety shock absorbers and safety-tilt switch available on Merc 400 and 500 for increased safety... the original alternator-generator assures maximum dependability... single-lever remote control gives you one lever, one hand control of throttle and shift. Choose manual or electric starting.

Buy now during Mercury dealers' "Water Sports Parade of Values"!

WORLD'S WATER SKI CHAMPS CHOOSE MERCURY

Women's Champ Vicki Voe Hook and Men's Champ Chuck Stearns agree: "For dependable pull-power for every water skier, no other choice is Mercury. We've tried them all, but only Mercury always does the smooth, steady pull we need for the varying speeds needed in tournament racing."

Home Staying Home As World Jets By

AYR, Scotland—Britain's Foreign Secretary, Lord Home, said Thursday he is going to stay home a lot more in the future.

He told a Conservative conference the business of foreign ministers whizzing about the world in jet planes "is seriously overdone and interferes with the continuity" which should govern foreign policy. He said he still had several overseas visits on his own schedule.

"But about the middle of June I shall go on strike and sit more in the control tower at the foreign office," he said. "I expect, though, in this kind of strike, at the end of it all I shall be just as seriously overworked and equally seriously underpaid."

BADMINTON, England—Queen Elizabeth celebrates her 25th birthday here today as guest of the Duke of Beaufort for the three-day Badminton Horse Trials. Princess Anne, recovering from measles at Windsor Castle, will miss the party.

THE HAGUE—The Netherlands government has proposed a raise in Queen Juliana's annual allowance to 2,500,000 guilders ($700,000) from the present 1,500,000 guilders ($450,000) in view of the rising cost of living.

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—Police say that an overdose of sleeping pills sent actress Rita Moreno to hospital and that she refused to give any explanation. She was found at Marion Brand's home, authorities said.

MOOSE JAW—Premier T. C. Douglas says he will contest the New Party leadership if he is "asked by the CCP constituents."

LOS ANGELES—Two men who allegedly tried to raise funds to build a memorial clinic in the name of the late actor Ward Bond must appear in court April 28 to answer complaints of misrepresentation and soliciting without a permit.

FAIRMONT, W.Va.—Two women bank tellers were scheduled to be taken to the federal women's reformatory at Alderson to begin serving prison terms for embezzlement. A year-and-a-half sentence was imposed on Lucy Fortney, 62, and a 15-year term plus an $8,000 fine on Mrs. Jo Ann Stevens, 25, for embezzling nearly $250,000 from the Bank of Shinnston, W.Va.

NEW YORK—A "blip" saved rather than interfered with Thursday's Jackie Gleason comedy, "Million Dollar Incident" on television. Broadcast almost was stopped when Gleason's former manager, George (Bullets) Durgomj, obtained a court injunction to prevent airing charging that Gleason used his name on the show without written permission. "Blip" was heard in place of Durgomj's name.

WASHINGTON—U.S. moving ambassador Averell Harriman said American scientists should demand proof that Russia put a man into orbit.

HOLLYWOOD—Marilyn Monroe said she won't marry Joe DiMaggio. "We're just friends—really," the actress told a reporter.

LONDON—Prime Minister Macmillan, 67, has hinted he hopes to remain in office "in the years to come" as he talked of a future round of trips to Commonwealth countries.

NEW YORK—Vice-President Johnson said the Kennedy administration will not get everything it wants from Congress, but he predicted "its batting average will be high."

OTTAWA—Jean-Paul Deschatelets (L)—Maisonnette-Rosemont has called for the teaching of both French and English to Eskimo pupils in federal schools in northern Quebec.

LOS ANGELES—Former child star Bobby Driscoll was cleared of a burglary charge when the judge at his preliminary hearing ruled there was insufficient evidence to bind him over for trial.

MANILA (AP)—Against a background of civil war in Laos and Communist terrorism in South Viet Nam, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization is holding its biggest military exercise. U.S. marines, British commandos, Australians, Thais and Filipinos—6,000 combat troops—are moving in 60 ships toward a mock assault of beaches in British North Borneo.

Children See Violent End To 'Triangle'

RIGGINS, Ida. (AP)—Three young children of Sidney Chartier of Boise watched horrified on a rural road Thursday as their father shot to death their mother's lover, Robert Bean, killed her with a shot in the head, then took his own life, Idaho County Sheriff Bud Taylor said.

Taylor said Chartier, a maintenance man for the Idaho Power Co., at Boise, came here Thursday with his three children, two boys, ages 9 and 12, and a girl 10, apparently seeking Mrs. Chartier.

The four met Bean and Mrs. Chartier on a rural road near Bean's trailer, about six miles east of here, he said.

The children ran—terrified to a road along the Salmon River, where they hailed a motorist, who called police.

Carmen Must Bleed He Needs Paydays

By OSCAR FRALEY
NEW YORK (UPI)—The same thing that draws people to bull fights figures to lure a full house into Boston's Garden on Saturday night when Paul Pender defends his middleweight title against Carmen Basilio.

Carmen, in the vernacular of the business, is a "right guy." A gentle family man

Mickey Mantle is healthy, and New York Yankees are chortling and keeping their fingers crossed that this might be the year the Mighty Mick regains his fence-busting form of 1956.

Mantle, now in his 10th season with the Yankees, hit .353, belted 52 homers, drove in 130 runs and scored 132 runs to lead the league in all departments in that wonderful 1956 season. Since then he has been plagued by injuries and while his record has been good by any standards, it has not quite reached the super-star status set for Mantle by the Yanks.

This year could be different. Mantle says he feels better than ever, and his record is backing him up in the early going.

He drove in five runs with his second and third homers of the season yesterday to lead the Yanks to a 7-5 win over Los Angeles Angels in the first half of a doubleheader. They took the second game, 4-2, to stretch their winning streak to four after losing their opener. Mantle had one hit in two tries in the second game to raise his average to .400. He also drew three walks in the doubleheader and has been on base in 11 of his last 13 appearances. Mantle had gone hitless in his first two games, but drove in all the runs in the third, when he got three hits.

STEADY PITCHING

While Mantle was making news the surprising Detroit Tigers were staying right in the thick of things, moving within half a game of the idle Minnesota Twins with an 11-4 win over Cleveland behind steady pitching by Frank Lary.

Lary, who tossed a one-hitter against Chicago in his first start, survived a rocky three-run fourth inning to check in with an eight-hitter. He got the help he needed from Norm Cash's three-run homer in the fifth to build his lead to 7-3, and the Indians were never close again.

Early Wynn collected his 25th major league victory with a 6-1 victory for the White Sox against Washington Senators. Roy Sievers, Jim Landis and Al Smith homered for the Sox.

STOPPED COLD

First-place Cincinnati was stopped cold by young Mike McCormick in the National League's only day game. McCormick gave up only four hits and ran his scoreless string to 17 innings before the Reds got their run in the ninth.

Charlie Lau drove in the winning run with an 11th-inning single for Milwaukee Braves, who scored five runs in the ninth to tie and finally beat Philadelphia 7-6.

BIG BLOW

Big blow in the ninth was a three-run homer by pinch-hitter Mel Roach.

St. Louis Cardinals whipped Los Angeles Dodgers, 11-2, bombarding them with 17 hits including two homers by Daryl Spencer and another by Ken Boyer. Dodgers' two runs came on a homer by Don Drysdale.

In another night game, Glenn Hobbie shut out Pittsburgh Pirates on six hits as Chicago Cubs won, 3-0.

Piggott, Rangers Linked with L.A.?

Rumors that Jim Piggott, owner of the Victoria Cougars, would have a solid working agreement with a National Hockey League club for next season and that New York Rangers had decided to sever their affiliation with Vancouver Canucks were both given substance yesterday by one report from Vancouver.

It said that Rangers were prepared to supply players for the new Los Angeles entry, which almost certainly will be operated by Piggott.

While no official confirmation could be obtained, it is known that the possibility of an arrangement between Piggott and the Rangers has existed for some time. And there have also been reports that the Rangers had decided to leave Vancouver even before Coley Hall sold his interest in the Mainland club.

Canucks expect that several players on their current roster owned by New York will be left in Vancouver but Piggott has stated time and again that he would make no arrangements with any club unless the club was given precedence over any other.

Piggott has an expanding minor hockey organization in Saskatoon and is in a position to demand a solid agreement of an arrangement between Piggott and the Rangers has existed for some time. And there have also been reports that the Rangers had decided to leave Vancouver even before Coley Hall sold his interest in the Mainland club.

Last year's final was an all-Calgary affair, and as quarter-finals were completed yesterday at Victoria Golf Club two Calgary golfers were still in the running for this year's title.

Jack Matthews of Calgary sank a 14-foot putt on the 18th hole to eliminate Emmett Balch of Edmonton. The other Calgarians in the semi-finals are R. H. Kelly, who posted a 4 and 3 triumph over Bill Gilmour of Vancouver.

Soccer, Anyone?

Any soccer players who haven't had enough of the game when this season is up are being asked to help form a summer league. Further information may be obtained by phoning Tony Degroot at EV 4-7722.

Matthews' competition today will be E. A. Trethewey of Vancouver, who won by default over John Hansen of Seattle. Kelly meets Ross Clark of Portland, who won 2 and 1, from Al Olson of Burlington, Wash.

The four tee-off at Victoria Golf Club today at 9:18 a.m.

Draw follows:

Tough Road to Finals

Madeline Mrs. R. M. Young of Tacoma and Mrs. G. H. Lovitt of the Most Upland Golf Club meet today in an 18-hole match for the ladies' championship of the Empress Golf Tournament, but it was a long tough fight before they reached the final.

Mrs. Young had to go to the 20th hole before beating out Mrs. Maureen Hiberson of Upland and Mrs. Lovitt found clubmate Mrs. B. Price almost as difficult, finally winning on the 19th.

Two down with two to go, Mrs. Hiberson won the 17th with a four-foot putt as Mrs. Young's putt hung on the lip of the cup, then took the 18th to square the match.

The 19th was halved as Mrs. Young shot a six and Mrs. Hiberson a seven with one handicap stroke. Both were on the 20th green in four, but Mrs. Hiberson three-putted and Mrs. Young was down in two.

Mrs. Lovitt, with four strokes in the handicap, won her match with a par on the 19th.

... best by far

SEATTLE (CP) — Portland Buckaroos' goalkeeper Don Head has been voted the rookie-of-the-year in the Western Hockey League for the 1960-61 season.

The 27-year-old Head, who was Canada's goalie at the 1960 Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley, played all 70 Portland games. He allowed 182 goals, an average of 2.74 a game.

He had the top average in the league and led in shutouts with seven, one short of the WHL record.

Gaiety Part Of Christianity

LONDON (Reuters) — Princess Margaret said Wednesday that gaiety is "an essential part of Christianity" at the annual conference here of Church of England Youth Council.

YES, YOU CAN HALT EARLY-AGING SIGNS!

It's dry skin that puts crow's feet, little lines and flaky patches on a woman's face. Yet it's difficult to avoid the drying effects of modern life: indoor heating, low-fat diets, heavy makeup, etc. That's why you need POND'S DAY SKIN CREAM. This famous cream, now with Allantoin, starts to repair dry skin in just 10 minutes! Allantoin draws off lifeless surface skin cells, speeds penetration of POND'S rich moisturized lanolin into parched tissues far below. Almost overnight, your skin takes on new tone, looks smoother, softer, younger. POND'S special formula will re-moisturize even the driest complexion. Get POND'S DAY SKIN CREAM... use it regularly. In jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold. Adv.

Green Expresses 'Deepest Regret' Over Shooting

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Green expressed "deepest regret" Thursday over the shooting of an Indian diplomat here Wednesday.

K. Sankara Pillai, 38, the high commissioner's first secretary, was shot to death by a man who walked into the commission offices carrying a .303-calibre rifle.

In magistrate's court Thursday Shani Periz, also 38, was remanded to April 27 without plea on a charge of murder. He was described by police as a naturalized Canadian who entered this country in 1951 from Yugoslavia.

Mr. Green, speaking in the Commons, referred to the diplomat's slaying as "wanton murder" and a "frightful crime."

He was replying to Paul Martin (L—Emmet East), who said a statement by Prime Minister Nehru amounted to implied criticism of security arrangements governing foreign missions here.

Mr. Green noted that diplomatic missions here are protected by those responsible for law and order generally—the competent local police authorities.

Taxes May Hit U.S. Investors

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Kennedy Thursday asked Congress to remove a number of tax incentives which had encouraged American investment in Canada, West Germany and other highly industrialized countries.

His proposals, which drew criticism from Republicans, would encourage greater economic expansion at home through tax credits and increased repatriation of American profits abroad.

Congressman Bruce Alger, Texas Republican, said the Kennedy tax message is "a declaration of war on American free enterprise."

One of Kennedy's proposals would seek to discourage heavy accumulation of undistributed profits by American subsidiary companies in Canada, Western Europe, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Japan. Kennedy made clear he doesn't want to discourage American investment in under-developed countries.

At present, American investors don't pay taxes on foreign earnings until they get their hands on the profits and dividends.

WITHHOLDING TAX
Under the Kennedy plan, the American investor will have to pay taxes on his foreign earnings in the year in which they have been earned, whether he has received them or not.

Another proposal would impose a 20-per-cent withholding tax on interest and dividends earned in the U.S. He said this would bring in $800,000,000 annually.

Kennedy also recommended taxing income which Americans who live abroad earn in the United States. This is aimed particularly at U.S. celebrities who have set up residence in low-tax countries.

Famed Couple Coming to See 'Foster Child'

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Brown of Morro Bay, Calif., will visit Mrs. R. C. Hibberd of 3283 Douglas Street, one of 37 "foster" children they have befriended over the years.

They are expected to arrive about the middle of May.

When Mrs. Hibberd's mother, Mrs. M. L. Ross, who died in 1932 at Esquimalt, became ill during the 1920s, friends arranged for her to stay with the Browns while attending school in California. "They were a childless couple who were always on the lookout for children in need," said Mrs. Hibberd.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, now in their 70s, are making a tour of the children they have helped.

St. Philomena Churches Must Change Names

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Roman Catholic girls named Philomena can keep the name of the "martyred virgin" stricken from the roll of the church's saints.

But Catholic churches named for her—and there are a number in Quebec—must be renamed as a result of the action this week by the Sacred Congregation of Bibles.

The church recognizes only the names of saints as baptismal names.

The Congregation of Bibles decided Philomena had been venerated in error. The same action has been taken in the past toward numerous other early martyrs who were attributed sainthood by popular fervor but never canonized.

'Round Dozen' Singers Defeated by Rhonda

By BERT BINNY

Several further awards were claimed during the fourth day of the Greater Victoria Music Festival yesterday.

The Miss I. Allen prize for a vocal solo by a girl or boy 8 years old or younger was won by Rhonda Williams who, despite her tender years, is no stranger to stage. Rhonda had a round dozen competitors of whom two tied for second place and no fewer than five for third.

The Henry Birks and Sons (B.C.) Ltd. prize for the piano concerto classes was won by Karen Dickson.

NO COMPETITION

Karen had no competition but the fact remains that she attained not only the required standard of excellence but also the high score of 88 points.

There were three finals on Wednesday evening as well as an interesting class for children's choirs.

SUCCESS REPEATED

This last was won by the Vera Barclay Studio choir with 179 points, exactly repeating the success gained by the Vera Barclay Studio ensemble in the afternoon. Second in the evening was the West Folk Glee Club with 174 and third was St. Aidan's Junior Choir with 169.

The Folk Song final was won by tenor Rino Elverhoy and the Victoria Musical Art Society bursary went to soprano Barbara Oldhall, a consistent winner in the 17 to 21 age bracket.

WON FINAL

Margaret Thomson won the final of the oratorio competition with Wendy Cox second and Peggy Walton Packard third.

The open Lied class and with it the Norma Douglas award was won by Barbara Oldhall accompanied by Pat Evans. Norman Tyrrell accompanied by Mrs. W. B. Milburn was second and Darlene Frewing with Karen Troop at the piano secured third place. Both singer and accompanist were adjudicated in this class. The results were a change from those in the morning eliminations when Miss Frewing was first, Miss Oldhall second and Mr. Tyrrell third.

EXCELLENT 179 St. Paul's Choir in the class for ensembles of eight or less voices yesterday morning were awarded—an excellent 179.

YWCA Talk May 5 Miss Lorraine Sinkler of Chicago will speak on the practical application of living the Infinite Way at 8 p.m. May 5 in the YWCA club room, Courtney and Blanshard Sts.

Music Festival Results

Points, equalling the high mark obtained Wednesday afternoon by the Vera Barclay ensemble and Wednesday evening by the Vera Barclay Children's choir.

Marguerite Hobbs won the mezzo-soprano and Muriel Smith the dramatic soprano classes while the three finalists in the female operatic class were Patricia Wicks, Ann Burridge and Sally Seymour.

LIGHT SOPRANO

Miss Burridge and Miss Seymour had already placed second and third respectively in the light soprano class on Tuesday afternoon.

The class for folk songs (any voice, Grade A), was won by Margaret Thomson Deen who also won the female oratorio class on Wednesday evening.

NIGHT READING

The piano classes yesterday afternoon were all in the eight reading and quick study group.

By securing marks of 84 and 84, 168, and 88 and 84, 172, respectively, Mary McMaster in the 15 and under class and Carol Brown in the 16 and under class, took the Registered Music Teachers' Association bursary and the Royal Schools of Music Association award.

LAST CLASS

The last class eligible for the Marian McGovern scholarship was heard yesterday evening along with operatic class finals and family ensemble class.

Piano and vocal competition except for school choruses ends today with the B.C. Electric Rose Bowl and the City of Victoria Medallion being awarded this evening.

By BERT BINNY able, and by Angus Smith as the visitor, a supremely interesting character. OVER, UNDER As Bullock, Frank Allen could be charged with a tendency to overact and thus escape his character; Susan Stiles tends to underact with the same result. But these are not large faults by any means. "A Lady Misdemeanor" is certainly well worth taking in. It will be staged in quite some time, by repeated today and tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. in St. Matthias Hall.

These are by Margaret Bedford as Mrs. Small, as dependable yet realistic a creator of laughs as has graced any local stage in quite some time; by Doris Exton as Esther, sympathetic and thoroughly believable.

Queen's Birthday Salute To Be Fired at Noon

A 21-gun salute honoring the birthday of Queen Elizabeth will be fired at noon today by 5th B.C. Medium Artillery Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, at Macaulay Point in Esquimalt.

Three gun crews commanded by Lieut. D. E. Elcombe will fire the salute with 165-millimetre guns, the unit's commanding officer, Maj. G. A. Archer, said yesterday.

Parties

Board Stand Backed

The executive of Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council last night approved the school board's stand on full parental responsibility for after-school shenanigans of local high school students at graduation time.

Council president Mrs. Irene Byers said executive members failed to see any need for "breakfast parties" arranged by Grade 12 students which school officials have complained are growing more popular.

"I don't see why they should have breakfast parties at all," said Mrs. Byers. "It's pretty ridiculous."

The council's executive agreed it was up to parents to find out where their sons and daughters are going after official graduation ceremonies, ending at midnight June 9 and to set the time at which they must be home.

FULL DETAILS

It approved the practice by principals of some local high schools of meeting parents to give them full details of graduation ceremonies to be held at the school under supervision of teachers.

Mrs. Byers said during the discussion a motion executive members several suggestions were put forward. Some members raised the question of holding graduation exercises during the afternoon so that the whole evening could be devoted to dancing under proper supervision.

OTHER MEMBERS

Other members suggested more parents should provide late-night parties for groups of students in their homes.

The school board this week approved a letter to parents saying that graduation ceremonies in five local high schools this June 9 will be held on a "trial basis."

It warned that unfavorable reports from principals of student behavior may in future prompt trustees to "eliminate graduation exercises."

Ottawa to Extend Winter Work Plan

Reunions Order Of Day

Families of crew members of three frigates returning to Esquimalt today after a three-month cruise will be admitted to HMC Dockyard to greet the ships.

Home after a cruise to the Antipodes are the frigates Ramsevalle, Beacon Hill and New Glasgow.

The ships will berth at "H" Jetty at 11 a.m.

Second Squadron Plans Month-Long U.S. Tour

Ships of the Pacific Command's Second Canadian Mine-sweeping Squadron are preparing for a month-long "grand tour" of the West Coast of the United States.

The minesweepers Fortune, Cowichan, Miramichi and James Bay will engage in minesweeping operations with the U.S. Navy off the California coast, visit San Francisco and stop over at Portland, Ore., for the Rose Festival.

Provincial government urging has resulted in an extension of the federal government's winter works program for provincial picnic sites and camp grounds until May 31. Recreation and Conservation Minister Earle C. Westwood said yesterday.

The program, under which both provincial and federal governments share the cost of the work, was to have ended April 30.

The extension could mean an additional $100,000 to the B.C. economy, said Mr. Westwood.

"This news from Ottawa is extremely good from our standpoint," said the minister. "In many instances projects not scheduled for completion this year will now be able to be completed."

Crew members will take part in the colorful events of the Portland Rose Festival and on June 12 the ships are scheduled to leave for Esquimalt at 11:30 a.m. June 13.

Qualicum Wants Our Cluster Lights!

Qualicum Beach has entered a bid to buy Victoria's famous light standards and flower baskets.

The Qualicum Chamber of Commerce entered the bid by telegram to Mayor Percy Scurrah.

However, the chamber wants the lights to stay in Victoria . . . and Mayor Scurrah said he doubted if Qualicum will get the chance to buy them.

Chamber president P. J. Eggersman said:

"We have discussed the question of Victoria's famous lamp standards and flower baskets. We hope that the city council will decide not to remove this charming attraction from our capital city.

"But if council does decide to do so, we want to be the first chamber to make a bid for these lamp standards and baskets and bring them to Qualicum Beach to add to the gracious living for which our community is known."

The mayor replied that he hoped Victoria would keep its famous trade mark, but "if we do decide to sell, you will get the first chance."

The mayor said last night: "I have never known an issue to cause so much consternation and resentment. The protest is not confined to local taxpayers—it's widespread."

He said a prominent city executive told him that delegates to the Pacific Northwest Trade Association conference at Portland had urged the preservation of the lights.

It May Be Historic Ruin Before It's Historic Site

Fort Rodd Hill may resemble a Roman ruin before it is recognized as a national historic site.

The Colonist learned yesterday that no one has attempted to get in touch with Prof. Margaret Ormsby, University of British Columbia historian, and B.C. representative on the National Historic Sites and Monuments Board.

Prof. Ormsby holds the key that can open the door to federal aid to development of the site as a national monument.

She said last night: "I know nothing about Fort Rodd Hill. I need some facts before I can make a presentation to the board for recognition of the fort," she said.

SOONER THE BETTER

And she needs them soon—the sooner the better.

For the board meets in Ottawa on May 23. Prof. Ormsby agreed that a brief should be prepared, outlining the fort's history so she can go before the board with "facts."

A brief was prepared by Geoffrey D'Arcy, 1321 Vimy, spark plug of the drive to turn the fort into a national monument.

It was presented to the then-member of the national board, Prof. W. N. Sage.

NOT AVAILABLE

Prof. Ormsby said the brief was not available and she would need a new outline of the fort's history.

She said "it would seem that since the presentation made by Dr. Sage was turned down, the brief should contain additional details of qualifications."

Mr. D'Arcy said he was surprised to learn the committee formed to promote the fort as a "western Fort Henry" had not presented any information to the national board.

"This is very disappointing. If I could do anything I would. It appears there is very little time left to prepare anything for the board," he said.

He added he would be willing to meet with Dr. Ormsby and detail the project "if necessary."

Inquiry Slated In Boy's Death

Saanich Residents Up In Arms

Industrial Plan Stirs Up Storm

Automatic

No Lull In Wail Of Siren

City finance committee yesterday recommended spending nearly $1,100 to ensure that sirens on four fire engines can be heard when they are supposed to be heard.

Acting on the recommendation of Fire Chief James Bay, the committee agreed that the city should pay for automatic siren controls on the city's four "first line" fire-fighting units.

LOWEST POINT

Finance chairman Ald. Austin Curtis said manual controls on the sirens allow from 15 to 30 seconds of silence when the wail reaches its lowest point on the siren scale.

Installation of the automatic control would eliminate the silent period and, the chairman pointed out, strengthen the city's position in a legal action when it might be argued that somebody failed to hear the warning.

"With the automatic system there can be no argument," he said.

"The present type makes it very difficult to prove in court that the siren was going."

ALL TESTIFIED

He told the committee that in previous court cases there have been instances when four men aboard a fire truck have all testified the siren was going, and eyewitnesses have said it could not be heard.

The new control will also give each of the four trucks a built-in public address system and an amplifying system so that the truck's radio can be heard from some distance away.

Nearby residents and at least two Saanich councillors are up in arms over a Vancouver firm's plans to establish a 70-acre industrial estate south of the Trans-Canada Highway, between Burnside and Admirals.

"This application represents spot rezoning—it's just a big spot, set down in a residential area," Coun. Gregory Cook charged last night.

TOO BIG

Coun. Leslie Passmore, who opposed an earlier plan by the company which involved only eight acres of the 70-acre site, has gone on record as saying: "The other one was too small; so far as I am concerned, this one is too big."

And S. A. Norman, 611 Sedgwick, who helped collect 130 signatures to a petition objecting to the first plan, last night promised "a really big petition this time."

SHOPPING CENTRE

The embattled company is Dominion Construction Co. Ltd. of Vancouver, which is building the island's largest shopping centre on Saanich's old municipal yard site at Douglas and Trans-Canada Highway.

Originally the company proposed to build an industrial estate on 11 acres of meadowland bordered by Burnside, Admirals, the Trans-Canada Highway and Colquitz Creek. The area was reduced to eight acres by provincial government planners to widen the highway.

SCHEME REJECTED

Following spirited opposition from nearby residents, Saanich council rejected the scheme.

The new scheme—covering an area of 70 acres—includes the eight acres of meadowland and extends south to Ker Street, taking in the site of the Tillicum outdoor theatre.

Immediately opposite the area is an 11-acre site where a syndicate of Victoria and Vancouver businessmen plan to build a $1,000,000 garden apartment development with 120 two and three-bedroom units.

Coun. Cook said last night he will urge Saanich council to rezone the eight acres alongside the highway for farming use, to preserve a pleasant approach to Victoria.

PRIOR RIGHTS

"By doing this I think it would be possible to get the idea across that present residents of the area do have some prior rights," he said. "One of these is the right to protect their property against depreciation."

"Few tourists like to drive through industrial areas if they can enjoy the pastoral scene. Greater Victoria residents like to claim the importance of the tourist industry but don't do one thing to preserve it."

Mr. Norman said it would take at least a week to collect all the signatures for a new petition, protesting against the 70-acre scheme.

"It seems Saanich is divided into two parts—the 'haves' and the 'have-nots.' For the favored part, Cadboro Bay and Gordon Head it is parks and beautification. For us in the Burnside-Admirals Road area it is pole yards and industrialization."

BROADSIDE

"The objection we made over the original scheme will seem like the firing of a saluting gun when compared to the broadside we are preparing to fire at this time," he said.

Dominion Construction has made application to have the 70-acre area rezoned to permit industrial use. The application is being considered by Saanich advisory planning commission. It has not yet been considered officially by Saanich council.

Agree to Set Charge

'Servants' Must Pay For Parking Space

Works Minister W. N. Chant said yesterday civil servants will have to pay for their parking facilities and the money collected will be used by the government to acquire additional off-street parking areas.

At the same time he said the provincial government had done a lot more for its employees in the matter of parking than either the federal or municipal governments.

"The federal government doesn't provide any parking facilities for its employees and the only people who have parking provided for them by the city are the aldermen," said Mr. Chant.

Mr. Chant was commenting on a suggestion by Ald. M. J. Griffin that more stringent parking restrictions be placed in the legislative buildings precinct.

SET CHARGE

Mr. Chant said provincial civil servants had agreed to a set charge for parking on the government parking lot at Government and Belleville.

"I hope there will not be any delays of an unusual or too-long nature," said the minister.

UNDERGROUND

Mr. Chant also said it was his personal opinion that there should be underground parking facilities provided under the proposed new provincial museum and archives which will be built on the present parking site.

No date has yet been set for the construction of this museum building.

Foul Bay Action Urged

Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay municipal leaders were urged yesterday to get cracking on the rebuilding of Foul Bay Road over its full length.

Works Minister W. N. Chant said he was far from happy over the apparent lack of action on the project.

NO PROGRESS

"They've made no progress at all," he said. "They've talked about it but they're not coming to grips with the job."

The suggested plan was to rebuild the road in its entirety and rename it University Way.

Mr. Chant urged all municipal leaders to take another look at the project and said there was a possibility that a grant towards part of the cost would be made by the Capital Improvement District Commission.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Our son is going with a girl who is much too good for him. We are worried about her but we are afraid to interfere.

Ralph is 18. He has a fine mind but he's obstinate, secretive, irresponsible, and has a bad temper. He refuses to listen to anyone who tries to help him. We've tried our clergyman, doctor, athletic coach, and friends.

Ralph has had girls crazy about him since he was 15. His romances always end the same way. He uses the girl for his own pleasures then drops her. His current steady is so lovely it's heartbreaking to know she will soon join the others. Can we warn her? —SAD PARENTS.

Dear Parents: You can't go around warning girls against your son. Your real responsibility is to get this boy straightened around so the world will be safe from him.

A girl who would "go crazy" over a young man with the qualities you describe must be pretty mixed up herself. Disturbed people often attract each other.

Make an appointment with a specialist and get some advice on how to reach a bright, hostile, maladjusted 18-year-old Don Juan. You need some professional direction.

Dear Ann: I'm a widow, 52, in good health. I own my own home, a new car, and have a modest income. I've been corresponding for six months with a man I've never met. He lives 3,000 miles away and is a friend of a friend who thought we should get together.

His letters are so romantic I feel like a school girl again. Last week he phoned and his voice is like Charles Boyer's. He wants me to sell my home and drive out to marry him. He said we can buy a brand new love-nest out there with the money I get from the house.

I wired my friend who knows him and asked for his advice. He said the man is "very nice" but he didn't want to be responsible for anything.

Miss MacNab Representative To Society

Miss Christine MacNab was appointed IOOE representative on the board of the Victoria Unit, Canadian Cancer Society. It was announced at the recent monthly meeting of Victoria Municipal Chapter, IOOE, with regent Mrs. Peter W. Bell in the chair.

Conveners elected at the meeting include: Commonwealth relations, Mrs. H. N. Parrott; immigration and citizenship, Mrs. N. S. Lockyer; empire and world affairs, Mrs. D. Teng; distinguished visitors, Mrs. H. Menzies; publicity, Mrs. E. L. Pitkethley.

Two members were honored with life membership certificates and pins in Municipal Chapter: Miss Christine MacNab, who served as educational secretary for 11 years, and Mrs. Owen P. Fowler, retiring Municipal regent.

Services at home and abroad convener, Mrs. B. T. Shaw reported financial assistance given to welfare work during the past month, and further funds were voted to assist in the treatment of a retarded child.

It was announced that members will assist in the Salvation Army's Matson Sunset Lodge campaign, under the convener of Mrs. H. N. Parrott. Conveners for the tag day to be held in June to raise funds for local welfare purposes are Mrs. Elsie Lowthian and Mrs. H. Menzies.

Annual Commonwealth service, formerly known as Empire Day, will take place Friday, May 19, at the Parliament Buildings, with Greater Victoria school children participating.

Discourage Defective Parents

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Couples who carry heritable factors that cause malformations in their offspring should be discouraged from having children, a genetics specialist says.

Dr. F. Clarke Fraser, director of the department of medical genetics at McGill University, Montreal, made the statement in an address Wednesday at the symposium on congenital defects, sponsored by the New Jersey Academy of Medicine and the National Foundation.

Dr. Fraser, advising increased heredity counselling as the best way to reduce the incidence of birth defects, said there is no more effective way of reducing the malformation rate "than to prevent the reproduction of those individuals carrying a gene that causes a developmental error."

"I would oppose any form of forcible control of reproduction, but I believe that one of our responsibilities as physicians is to make members of the present generation aware of their responsibility to future generations in this regard."

Dr. Fraser listed three other measures which he said could cause a reduction in the number of malformed children born.

● Encourage parents to have their children before they near the end of their normal reproductive period.

● Encourage girls to become exposed to German measles before they are old enough to bear children.

● Take precautions to avoid unnecessary exposure to radiation of male reproductive organs and avoid any radiation exposure "to an unborn child during pregnancy."

Parents, Nursery Keeper Criminally Responsible

MONTREAL (CP)—The parents of a two-month-old baby who died of malnutrition in an unlicensed east-end nursery, and the nursery keeper were found criminally responsible Thursday.

Sandra Corriveau, whose twin sister Shirley is in hospital undergoing treatment for the same condition, was placed in a nursery operated by Mrs. Michael Arsenault one week after she was born. She died April 13.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Corriveau, who had another child in the nursery, testified they put the children in the nursery as both could work.

Student Jobs Scarce

Summer employment situation for Victoria University students is "becoming very tight," a spokesman at the campus placement service said yesterday.

A plea was renewed for Greater Victoria business firms who could use students during summer months to call the campus placement office or the National Employment Service downtown.

The job shortage is a result of increased enrolment at the university coupled with the fact fewer jobs are available.

Hepatitis Breaks Out Among Hospital Workers

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask.

(CP)—All employees and administrative personnel, numbering some 200, of Holy Family Hospital here have been given injections of gamma globulin serum in an effort to prevent possible spread of infectious hepatitis, or jaundice, it was disclosed Thursday.

Two cases of the disease occurred this week among hospital staffers.

Both persons stricken with the disease are undergoing treatment.

There does not appear to be any immediate danger of patients contracting infectious hepatitis.

Infectious hepatitis, also called jaundice, prevents drainage of bile from the liver and causes discoloration of the skin. Illness usually lasts from a few weeks to more than a month. Fatalities rarely occur.

Course Starts Soon For Census Takers

Training of commissioners in the Greater Victoria area for the June, 1961, Canada-wide census will start next week.

Six commissioners appointed for the Victoria federal riding, five for Esquimalt-Sanich and one for the Cowichan area of the Nanaimo constituency, all start their training here Monday under Norman McLeod of the Vancouver office of the Dominion bureau of statistics.

EACH AREA

About 25 enumerators will also be employed from each area. Names of commissioners and enumerators have not yet been announced.

Primary purpose of the census is to determine representation of provinces in the federal House of Commons. Census statistics are also used in calculating amounts of federal payments to provinces on a population basis.

Canada's population at the end of 1960 was estimated at 18,040,000. If the June census mean a national increase of more than 4,200,000 since the last census was taken 10 years ago, in 1951.

Census takers will compile information about population, housing, agriculture and merchandising.

Red China Issue

Three Out of Four Agree with Prelate

Three out of four Victorians agree with Most Rev. Harold Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia, who would like to see Red China admitted to the United Nations.

The archbishop called for admission of Red China into the UN in his charge to the 59th Synod of the Diocese of British Columbia.

"We cannot safely ignore these teeming millions," he told 200 clergy and lay delegates to the Synod. "It would seem the path of wisdom to admit her without delay to the United Nations."

The majority of Victorians called in an opinion survey yesterday agree. Typical comments on the archbishop's statement:

Impersonal Society Menace

VANCOUVER (CP) — An impersonal society with the individual ignored or alienated is one of the "greatest threats to the survival of the Western world," Dean Neville Scarfe, head of the University of British Columbia's college of education, said Thursday.

"In Russia the individual is only important insofar as he supports the state," he told a service club meeting.

DESTROYING FREEDOM
"Gigantic organizations, chain-belt procedures and monolithic enterprises are destroying the esteem we have for the dignity and worth of the individual human personality."

Dean Scarfe expressed concern that the individual "is becoming submerged in the mass," that children are being "pushed" rather than led in the ways of education, with resultant resistance and waste of valuable energy and that the trend in schools is "toward impersonality."

IMPERSONAL
Size and cost of schools leads to impersonal solutions, the dean said. There are mass grouping, standard curricula and the standard examinations. "Children are encouraged to fit into a group, to become popular and well adjusted," he said, adding that the well-adjusted human doesn't necessarily contribute most to society.

"HELLIONS"
Dean Scarfe said many leaders in business and men with ideas were "hellions in school" if the truth were told. The individual, he said, needs freedom to find himself in a group, not bury himself in it.

Race Prejudice Hearing Called Waste of Time

Victoria police commission yesterday concluded hearing of evidence in what two of its members called "a tremendous waste of time"—the airing of a charge of racial discrimination against city Const. A. V. Harwood.

The charge arose from the arrest Feb. 4 of Low Sult Yew, 1156 North Park, young Chinese employed on the B.C. government ferries, who was involved in an accident at the Fountain Circle.

FINED $45
The accident was seen by Const. Harwood, and Low later, through counsel, pleaded guilty to careless driving and was fined $45.

Cry of "racial discrimination" was raised in the legislature by city MLA Waldo Skillings, who was reading a letter from the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Society.

When testimony had been completed, in city council chamber, the commission, headed by chairman Mayor Percy Scurrell, agreed to adjourn to a date still to be fixed for argument by lawyers in the case.

"We'll give you one hour," said commissioner W. J. Hamilton. Commissioner Gordon Carter agreed.

"NO EVIDENCE"
"There has been no evidence of any racial discrimination at all," he said, "and this is what the hearing was called for. I see no point in going any further."

When Const. Harwood had concluded his account of the accident, Mr. McKenzie asked: "How many arrests have you made, say, in the last five years?"

"My total in that period is 123 arrests."

"How many were Chinese?"

"Only two—this one and one other."

"How many were arrested for careless driving?"

"Nine in the five years."

Cross-examining Mr. Mcintosh asked the officer:

"If, for example, the premier's wife had been the driver in a case like this, would you have made an arrest?"

"If the driver had been the premier's wife," replied Const. Harwood, "or Mr. Mayor himself, that driver would have gone to jail. That would even apply to the chief (Chief Const. John Blackstock, attending the hearing)."

"I would like to add," said Const. Harwood, "that for two years I sent my boy to the Chinese Mission School in town."

Spring Show

Car Was Weaving

Impaired Driver Fined

Stanley Edwin Olson, 482 Pandora, about 5 a.m. yesterday. The car was weaving, he said.

Olson was stopped at the Fountain Circle.

Cecilia, pleaded guilty in city police court yesterday to a charge of impaired driving. He was fined $250 and remanded to April 27 for a probation report on disposition of his driver's licence.

Const. Edward James told Magistrate William Ostler he had observed a car driven by Olson in an erratic manner on

South African Crisis

Fateful Hour Nearer

By SYDNEY WILLIAMS
(Eighth of a Series)

South Africa's withdrawal from the British Commonwealth deepens the crises that has gripped this country.

The action of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd brings nearer the fateful hour when the volcano which his government has built will erupt.

We have already seen that the Afrikaans element in South Africa regards every rebuff to apartheid as a personal attack on them. These people are obstinate. Their reaction is to toughen the rigid racial laws.

Saving Bomb

Yet it is surprising that the African natives welcomed the government's decision. Though they regard British justice and fair play with a wistful longing and have watched the evolution of Ghana, Nigeria and other British colonies with pride, they have looked on themselves as captives in a prison camp.

Such prisoners, desperate, hungry, hopeless, will welcome a bomb that might blow away part of the barbed wire.

Won't Learn

Perhaps it is South Africa's isolation from the rest of the world that creates a white population—at least the Afrikaans—which will not learn from history or current affairs. It is remote. Imported publications are few. Personal contact with outsiders is rare.

Backed by a church that for 300 years has preached the superiority of the white man, there is religious fervor about the racial attitude of the Afrikaans.

Coupled with this is the recognition of themselves as a new race. They are 300 years from the Dutch who settled Cape Colony, and several generations removed from the "voortrekkers" who migrated into the Transvaal and the Orange Free State to escape British anti-slavery laws.

Religious Fervor About Apartheid

This has developed in them a vision of themselves as a group of people with nowhere to turn, facing a glorious future if they survive, extinction if they become "Anglicized."

Verwoerd's Letter

I have before me the letter that Dr. Verwoerd, in his own handwriting, sent all the voters before the referendum last year on the proposal to make South Africa a republic.

British monarchy or South African republic? Peace and order and economic progress demand a final settlement of this dispute. Should South Africa remain a monarchy, it will have to suffer, time and again, from instigated racial clashes and economic setbacks, since these are the weapons used to prevent the coming of the republic.

His letter called for unity among the white people, yet nothing is dividing them more than the issue of the republic.

Seek Favor

Both Communism and Christendom, Verwoerd said in his letter, "... will grant and concede anything (including the white man of Africa, his possessions and his rights) to seek the favor of the black man." Only a democratic republic can prevent this, he argued.

Yet South Africa bears no slavery there, and the South African war.

When withdrawal from the Commonwealth followed the victory of the republic referendum, it consolidated the "Afrikaner" triumph. But it vastly increased, rather than lessened, tension in the country. And it gives cause now for a more rigid imposition of control laws, not only on the non-white but also on the white population.

Macmillan:

Vendetta Helps Nothing

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan, pledging Britain's co-operation in trade with South Africa after it leaves the Commonwealth May 31, said yesterday a vendetta would do nothing to change apartheid.

Macmillan said he believed it is "the hope of every one of us" that in time a South Africa which has dropped its apartheid policy will rejoin the Commonwealth.

The prime minister told 4,000 Conservative women at a meeting here, "We would certainly not help the situation if we pursued a vendetta against them and indulged in trade boycotts and similar demonstrations."

"On the contrary, we hope to continue as far as is practicable co-operation in trade and other matters."

Railways Keep Standard Time

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada's railways feel they cannot operate on daylight saving time. Transport Minister Balcer said Wednesday.

He told the Commons the railways felt they had to operate on standard time throughout the year to fit in with U.S. operations which use the same time and to avoid confusion in Canada.

Family, Children's Service Meets

Slices of Life Served Instead of Platitudes

By EDMUND COSGROVE

It wasn't one of those "praise the chairman and pass around the platitudes" meetings.

The speakers served up, raw, slices of life that suddenly made very, very worthwhile all the committee meetings, canvassing, campaigns, paper work and headaches connected with running Victoria's Family and Children's Service.

FIRST HAND

More than 200 members of the service heard, first-hand, just what their activities were doing at the meeting last night in St. Luke's Church hall.

They heard a young man—a high school teacher now and the father of four children of his own—relate how he cried silently and bitterly through a long, long night for a home he had never known when a youngster of seven.

ALL ADOPTED

They heard another young man—also a high school teacher—proudly volunteer to show pictures of his four children, all adopted.

And the mother of four children, foster mother of three, plead "for all the people to open their homes and their hearts to children who need love so badly."

DEPARTURE

It was the 60th annual meeting of the service—and something of a departure from normal procedure.

William Haley, a high school teacher and father of four children, came to the Children's Aid Society at the age of four.

OTHER SIDE

"I'm the other side of the coin—I received the fruits of your work," he told the meeting.

Product of a broken home, he and his sister were placed in three foster homes. The first placement ended with the woman screaming at the two children: "I hope I never see you again."

"She didn't... she went blind two years later," reported Mr. Haley.

SICKNESS HIT

The second placement ended when sickness hit the family... then kids were not included in the family plans.

Mr. Haley was lucky on the third try. He went to the home from which he received his present name. His sister... she tried once more before she finally connected permanently with a California family.

DIDN'T PUSH

"The Haley's didn't push... they were gentle... the first night there, I cried two or three hours... cried for the home I had never known. The Haley's had accepted me, but I hadn't accepted them."

That's something adopting parents must remember, he said.

To the adopted child, his brand-new parents are just two more people who are going to do things to him...

The foster child brings into the home characteristics he has found somewhere else...

a foster parent must conform slightly to the child, for the child is the product of all that he has encountered before.

By letting the child take the lead, his resistance and hostility will gradually break down. It did with Mr. Haley. He asked to have his name changed to theirs.

SLIGHT CRITICISM

"I have a slight criticism, as a receiver of your care. If you are going to take on the responsibility... there should not be so much emphasis placed on the material checking of foster parents, and more emotional and environmental checking."

"Officers (of the society) must do more personal checking. Check them for what they have here (heart) and here (head) rather than what they have in the bank."

Said William Taylor, Oak Bay High School teacher who has adopted four children:

"The Family Service has brought four wonderful children into our lives... our experiences has been that if you give a little love, you get a great deal back."

Said Mrs. J. J. Peterson, who has taken three foster children into her home along with her own four children:

"Those children who have had or still have homes of their own... our main duty is to remove the hate from their hearts."

The meeting also heard what it was like when the service was first formed... when the members acted as social workers.

STEP IN

"In our community," related Mrs. Frances Barr, daughter of one of the founders of the organization, "if there was a need, some woman would step in and help."

"Children's Aid was on a very personal basis, carried out by people who really cared what happened to their neighbors."

"This is a future the Fathers of Confederation never dreamed of... If there is to be any future, the kind we shall have will depend very largely on what kind of education we provide for our youth today."

A special board comprising representatives of all the provinces and universities in Canada, should be appointed to determine nation-wide education standards, Mr. Groos said.

"Venturing into this level of education may be a new departure for the federal government, but as I see it, this is just as important for the good of the nation as national defence."

"In fact, in a way it is national defence."

Mr. Groos is contesting the May 29 federal byelection in Esquimalt-Saanich riding. He addressed an audience of 30 in Trillium School last night.

"As you know, education is its entirely has been the jealously guarded right of the provinces ever since Confederation... I am not prepared to argue about what has happened in the past, I want to look to the future," he said.

ANY FUTURE

"This is a future the Fathers of Confederation never dreamed of... If there is to be any future, the kind we shall have will depend very largely on what kind of education we provide for our youth today."

A special board comprising representatives of all the provinces and universities in Canada, should be appointed to determine nation-wide education standards, Mr. Groos said.

Two Boys Injured In Bike Collision

A couple of hard-riding cyclists who met head-on at Oliver and McGill were rushed to hospital yesterday afternoon.

Larry Davis, 8, 1937 St. David, was admitted to Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering a possible concussion.

His seven-year-old fellow cyclist, John Pearson, 1248 St. David, was treated for a broken wrist and released.

'Throwing Off Yoke' Says Communist

South America was likened to a potential giant just starting to flex its muscles by a spokesman for the Canadian Communist party here last night.

National labor secretary of the Communist party, Bill Kashtan of Toronto told more than 50 present at a "Hands Off Cuba" meeting that the example set by Cuba in "throwing off the yoke of imperialism" and nationalizing the country's resources and industry has set other countries thinking.

"They ask themselves, if 6,500,000 Cubans can do this, why can't we?"

He said imperialism is not the dominant force it was before socialism emerged. In Cuba's case, when the United States formed a trade block, there were countries that offered help.

He criticized Prime Minister Diefenbaker's stand in backing American policy in Cuba. "He was elected because it was believed he would stand up to the United States. It would be better to say he was lying down."

At the close of the meeting a resolution was passed calling on U.S. President John Kennedy to cease "aggression" against Cuba.

The meeting also agreed to set up a "Hands Off Cuba" committee.

National Standards Urged for Education

Liberal candidate David Groos last night called for national standards of education to take Canada out of the days of "the little red schoolhouse."

"It is time the federal government met with the provincial governments to work out a new education policy for the whole nation and they should, at the same time, work out a new approach to the problem of how increased educational costs are to be shared," he said.

AUDIENCE OF 30

Mr. Groos is contesting the May 29 federal byelection in Esquimalt-Saanich riding. He addressed an audience of 30 in Trillium School last night.

"As you know, education is its entirely has been the jealously guarded right of the provinces ever since Confederation... I am not prepared to argue about what has happened in the past, I want to look to the future," he said.

Farmers Opposed?

Central Saanich farmers may not support a $675,000 school bylaw because they are already heavily taxed, Charles Wilson, of Wilsona Farms, said last night.

Several members of the South Saanich Farmers Institute thumped heavily on chairs and the floor when Mr. Wilson stood up and said:

"It's pretty hard to ask a farmer to pay the other fellow's share because they're always in a semi-depressed state of revenue."

He preceded the statement with a comment that farmers are not opposed to education but simply don't have the capacity to pay for it.

In reply to a question whether "slow" students may be given inadequate attention in larger schools, Reginald Siskin, chairman of the Saanich school board said:

"Please, God, we don't want to raise a nation of scientists."

... We put too much emphasis on the academically bright youngster. What we have to do is look after the little gaffer who can't help himself."

Armstrong-Jones Unveils Birdcage

Mink for All Breeder Urges

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Mink farmer Otto Grosse has proposed a campaign to make life rough for European husbands.

"We have failed to impress the European housewife that she should have an American mink coat," Grosse said.

No Change In Support For Butter

OTTAWA (CP)—Dairy support prices—including butter—will remain unchanged for another year from May 1, Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton told the Commons yesterday.

He thus indicated that study of ways to lower butter prices without unduly reducing returns to the farmers—in an effort to stimulate butter consumption—has not been completed.

A price cut of 10 cents a pound had been pondered.

The support level of 64 cents a pound for butter will continue for top grades.

LONDON (UPI)—Antony Armstrong-Jones, a man who lives in a gilded cage, emerged yesterday to unveil his design to give more freedom to the birds in London's zoo.

He appeared nervous when he showed his aviary design to the first news conference he has held since marriage last year to Princess Margaret, fenced him in.

FREE BUT VISIBLE

"The idea is for the birds to live as freely as possible while allowing the public as much view as possible," the former society photographer said.

Asked if he planned to design more birdcages for the zoo, he threw up his hands and said, "I don't want to be known as an aviary man."

PRINCESS' HAND

Princess Margaret, a bird-lover from childhood, apparently had a hand in the cage design, Armstrong-Jones said he made his plans and built the model "at home during evenings and at weekends."

He said he never had much interest in birds. "But I did design two cages for garden use."

SORT OF GAZEBO

He acknowledged that one of them is in a royal garden. "It was a sort of gazebo (lantern-shaped) garden type," he said.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Health Minister Martin and MLA Bert Price told a meeting here that it is a fallacy that a strong opposition makes for a strong government.

"It works just the other way around," said Mr. Price, of Vancouver-Burrard, at a Social Credit rally. "A strong opposition makes for a weak government."

HAMPERED

"A government that is out to get things done needs a strong majority if it is not to be hampered and delayed in everything it tries to do."

Mr. Martin said the CCF opposition at the last session of the legislature "argued only for the sake of argument."

WASTED TIME

"They delayed. They wasted your time and money time and again. It's an entirely false impression, as Mr. Price said, that a strong opposition makes a strong government."

City Beer Parlor
Closed for Week

By PETER BRUTON

Liquor control board has slapped a one-month suspension on the sale of O'Keefe's beer in B.C. and has closed Victoria's Drake Hotel and Vancouver's St. Helen's Hotel beer parlors for a week.

The Vancouver brewery and the two hotels violated the B.C. Liquor Act.

L.C.B. officials refused to disclose what the violation was but did say that it was one of the severest penalties ever levied against a brewery.

A spokesman for O'Keefe's said: "We are making no comment at this stage."

The licence for the Drake Hotel was not available for comment.

The suspensions took effect yesterday morning.

It was learned that there was a connection between the brewery suspension and that ordered for the two hotels.

All brands of beer manufactured by O'Keefe's have been removed from the shelves of liquor stores throughout the province.

Tshombe Will Lift
Blockade of UN

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters)—Katanga president Moise Tshombe prepared Thursday to lift his economic blockade of the United Nations.

Ab order ending the blockade is expected by this morning.

Observers saw the awaited move as inevitable. The blockade, which consisted of economic harassment such as refusing to sell the UN food or gasoline, was beginning to hurt Katanga province more than the United Nations.

Tshombe's blockade threatened to bring down the whole weight of UN and world displeasure on Katanga and seriously affect his position.

Revolt Smashed
Behind the LinesBy FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY
United Press International

Government repression behind the lines rather than fighting on the beachhead broke the back of the anti-Castro invasion, it was reported from Havana Thursday night.

Fifty-thousand men, women and children across the country—14,000 in Havana alone—entire families in some cases, were herded into improvised concentration camps put up in the sports stadium, in hotels and schools and even in a brewery.

INDEPENDENT REPORT
This information was obtained in the first independent telephone communications with the Cuban capital since invading forces landed on the southern coast early Monday morning.

Neighbors' vigilante committees went out in the streets pointing out alleged anti-Castroites. Trucks and buses picked up those designated.

ARMED REVOLT
The hordes of disaffected expected to rise in armed revolt backing up the invasion have amounted to no more than armed bands.

Government agents picked up anti-Castro leaders during the 12 hours that news of the invasion was withheld.

WITHOUT KNOWING
Most were picked up without knowing the invasion was coming.

Others, however, had received an alert for a date a week later.

As the leaders were picked up, their relatives and friends sought asylum in the embassies, which are jammed. Others went into hiding in the homes of friends.

TAKEN OVER
The churches were searched and taken over by the militia. No one was allowed to enter or leave them.

One report said that more than 100 priests have been locked up including the Cuban Augustinian fathers, at their school in Colon in Matanzas province.

TOO LATE
Many observers believe the invasion was ill-prepared, ill-timed, too little, and too late. It did not appear to them to be well-organized overall. It apparently did not include any organized uprising within Cuba.

Even the embassies were cut off from telephone and cable communication. Only the Communist-bloc people could get through.

Anti-Castro exiles, defeated on the beaches of Cuba, turned their invasion into a guerrilla mountain war Thursday and a series of small landings to bolster the hit-run fighters was reported.

"We have just begun to fight," exile spokesmen said as Premier Castro and the Communist world heralded the end of the invasion.

Castro intensified his crack-down. At least 12 more persons were executed by firing squads.

CALM AND ALERT
As Castro stepped up accusations against the "gringo" United States, informed sources at the U.S. navy base at Guantanamo Bay said the premier had set up artillery between Guantanamo City and Gorieta, seven miles west of the base. Guantanamo remained calm and alert.

Authoritative sources in the United States said that while the Communist-armed Castro forces were using tanks and MIG jets to smash back the main invading force at Cienfuegos Bay Monday, other smaller forces began landing and drifting into the hills.

MADE IT ANKORE
Smaller groups "at random" made it ashore, bringing communications equipment and supplies badly needed by the

MUNDAY PUNCH
They described the Cochinos Bay landing in southern Cuba Monday as the Sunday punch. It missed. The attackers pressed inland, then were smashed back into the sea.

But the sources said another force of more than 500 men got ashore safely in easternmost Cuba last Saturday night and almost all are believed safely holed up in the hills.

Reports from Guantanamo said another landing had been made in Northeastern Cuba near Holguin, by a well-trained band led by anti-Castro hero Rene Diaz.

GONE AWAY
A radio "Cuba Libre" broadcast from an undisclosed site said another landing had been made in central Cuba's Camaguey Province and that Dr. Luis Conte Aguiar, head of the anti-Communist Christian Front, had gone ashore.

Anti-Castro exiles, defeated on the beaches of Cuba, turned their invasion into a guerrilla mountain war Thursday and a series of small landings to bolster the hit-run fighters was reported.

"We have just begun to fight," exile spokesmen said as Premier Castro and the Communist world heralded the end of the invasion.

Castro intensified his crack-down. At least 12 more persons were executed by firing squads.

CALM AND ALERT
As Castro stepped up accusations against the "gringo" United States, informed sources at the U.S. navy base at Guantanamo Bay said the premier had set up artillery between Guantanamo City and Gorieta, seven miles west of the base. Guantanamo remained calm and alert.

Authoritative sources in the United States said that while the Communist-armed Castro forces were using tanks and MIG jets to smash back the main invading force at Cienfuegos Bay Monday, other smaller forces began landing and drifting into the hills.

Queen's Birthday Salute To Be Fired at Noon

A 21-gun salute honoring the birthday of Queen Elizabeth will be fired at noon today by 5th B.C. Medium Artillery Battery, Royal Canadian Artillery, at Macaulay Point in Esquimalt.

Three gun crews commanded by Lieut. D. E. Elcock will fire the salute with 105-millimetre guns, the unit's commanding officer, Maj. G. A. Archer, said yesterday.

Parties

Board Stand Backed

The executive of Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council last night approved the school board's stand on full parental responsibility for after-hours shenanigans of local high school students at graduation time.

Council president Mrs. Irene Byers said executive members failed to see any need for "breakfast parties" arranged by Grade 12 students which school officials have complained are growing more popular.

RIDICULOUS

"I don't see why they should have breakfast parties at all," said Mrs. Byers. "It's pretty ridiculous."

The council's executive agreed it was up to parents to find out where their sons and daughters are going after official graduation ceremonies ending at midnight June 9 and to set the time at which they must be home.

FULL DETAILS

It also proved the practice by principals of some local high schools of meeting parents to give them full details of graduation ceremonies to be held at the school under supervision of teachers.

Mrs. Byers said during the discussion among executive members several suggestions were put forward. Some members raised the question of holding graduation exercises during the afternoon so that the whole evening could be devoted to dancing under proper supervision.

OTHER MEMBERS

Other members suggested more parents should provide late-night parties for groups of students in their homes.

The school board this week approved a letter to parents saying that graduation ceremonies in five local high schools this June 9 will be held on a "trial basis." It warned that unfavorable reports from principals of student behavior may in future prompt trustees to "eliminate graduation exercises."

Nanaimo Newest Target Area

NANAIMO—Construction of a wartime emergency site here for the provincial government and other officials will likely mean the city will be reclassified as a "target area."

Dawson Gordon, chief of civil defence for Nanaimo, yesterday said that until now, Nanaimo has been a "reception area."

He was commenting on Prime Minister Diefenbaker's announcement that tenders will be called soon for construction of an emergency site in Nanaimo.

Mr. Gordon added that with the emergency wartime facilities planned for Nanaimo, the role of civil defence in the city area may be changed.

He admitted that if federal, provincial and army personnel direct emergency measures for British Columbia from Nanaimo, the city would be a target area.

Other Island News See Page 31

Mr. Gordon said civil defence planning for Nanaimo in the past has been that of a reception area. The city was geared to look after casualties from Victoria and other centres.

CHEMAINUS—A Chemainus car dealer was fined in police court Thursday for selling cars without a dealer's licence.

In a case waived from Tahsia, Alexander Gamble, now of Chemainus, was fined $25 for creating a disturbance. Incident occurred at Zeballos.

Peter Jackson, North Chemainus, was fined $20 for careless driving. Charges were laid following an accident last week on North Chemainus Highway when a car driven by Jackson ran into a bank.

Thomas Lee, Chemainus, was fined $15 for speeding.

DUNCAN—Three weeks of public skating at the curling rink winds up this weekend with costume prizes for the youngsters.

Tonight starting at 7, the 10- and under age group will have its final fling. All youngsters in costume will be admitted free. There will be prizes for costumes and various races and games.

Saturday night, the 11 and over group will enjoy a party with games and prizes with all youngsters in costume again being admitted free.

Public skating for the season ends Sunday night.

NANAIMO—Whoever horned in on a set of record deer horns is being sought by the antler owners.

According to A. Wilson of Nanaimo, his prize horns were taken from a shed at the rear of a local hotel.

The horns were left at the hotel following a contest at which game department biologist J. Bandy took measurements.

A good heavy live-point set with two tips broken, they have been entered in a contest in New York.

Mr. Wilson said he needs the horns in case confirmation of measurements is required.

DUNCAN—The 4th Duncan Scout Troop has offered to help clean up the site in return for use of grounds in Rotary Club Park on the banks of Cowichan River.

The park, located on the northeast side of the river below the Silver Bridge, is still in the initial stage of development.

Scouts asked permission to hold meetings and campfires on the grounds this summer. Club approval will be granted subject to certain restrictions.

Annual Rotary Club auction will be held on May 12 and 13.

CHEMAINUS—John Thompson, Duncan, was fined $30 and costs for careless driving. Charges were laid following an accident on Groffton Road early Sunday morning when a small car driven by Thompson hit a telephone pole and was demolished.

NORTH COWICHAN—Next regularly scheduled meeting of North Cowichan council has been rescheduled one day later to allow municipal representatives to attend the annual meeting of the Association of V.I. Municipalities in Nanaimo May 3.

Council meeting, which would have conflicted with the Nanaimo meeting, has been set for May 4.

DUNCAN—Banker Peter F. P. Bird was installed Thursday as president of Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, succeeding David Williams.

Al Seed is vice-president. Directors are Harvey Grier, B. W. W. Cook, J. E. Good, J. R. Frumendo, R. M. Poskitt, D. R. Williams, Denis Mason, Hurley, Cliff Pascoe and Gilbert Thom.

Art Stevenson has been re-appointed secretary-treasurer.

NANAIMO—Vancouver Island representative at the annual conference of Toastmasters this weekend at Vernon will be Dr. Thomas Cosgrove of Nanaimo.

TIME OUT: One of the maintenance men in a large city department store was awakened from his reverie by the insistent buzzing of the telephone.

It was 6:40 a.m.

On and on rang the phone until finally, in order to have peace and quiet, he answered it.

"Will you please put me through to home furnishings?" said the woman on the other end of the line.

"Lady," said the maintenance man, "will you please call back when the store opens?"

"When the store opens?" replied the woman. "Why isn't it open now?"

"Lady," continued the maintenance man, "it's only 6:45. There was a stunned pause."

"Oh, my golly," said the woman. "I sent the kids off to school 20 minutes ago."

TALKING MACHINE: The B.C. Telephone Company has a new gadget which makes it possible for people who have lost their voice to talk on the phone.

It's called an electronic larynx and it costs $45.

The company has sold seven of the battery-powered gadgets in B.C. during the past two months to laryngectomies—people who have lost their voices through paralysis or surgery removal of the vocal cords.

It looks something like a streamlined electric razor and comes in two models—one high pitched to simulate the female voice, the other with a lower pitch for men.

The instrument is held against the outside of the throat and transmits sound waves. Speech is produced by forming words with lips and tongue just as in normal conversation.

SORRY FOR THE INCONVENIENCE: New Party candidate Glen Hamilton is somewhat red-faced because of the over-zealousness of his supporters.

Saanich Residents Up In Arms

Industrial Plan Stirs Up Storm

Automatic

No Lull In Wail Of Siren

City finance committee yesterday recommended spending nearly $1,100 to ensure that sirens on four fire engines can be heard when they are supposed to be heard.

Acting on the recommendation of Fire Chief James Bayless, the committee agreed that the city should pay for automatic siren controls on the city's four "first line" fire-fighting units.

LOWEST POINT

Finance chairman Ald. Austin Curtis said manual controls on the sirens allow from 15 to 30 seconds of silence when the wail reaches its lowest point on the siren scale.

Installation of the automatic control would eliminate the silent period and, the chairman pointed out, strengthen the city's position in a legal action when it might be argued that somebody failed to hear the warning.

"With the automatic system there can be no argument," he said.

"The present type makes it very difficult to prove in court that the siren was going."

ALL TESTIFIED

He told the committee that in previous court cases there have been instances when four men aboard a fire truck have all testified the siren was going, and eyewitnesses have said it could not be heard.

The new control will also give each of the four trucks a built-in public address system and an amplifying system so that the truck's radio can be heard from some distance away.

OLDER PIECES

Ald. Curtis explained that the automatic controls will gradually become universal within the fire-fighting fleet because as each of the older pieces of equipment is replaced the new ones will be ordered with the new device already installed.

A Victoria motorist was killed earlier this year when his vehicle was struck by a fire engine at a city intersection.

Nearby residents and at least two Saanich councillors are up in arms over a Vancouver firm's plans to establish a 70-acre industrial estate south of the Trans-Canada Highway, between Burnside and Admirals.

This application represents spot rezoning—it's just a big spot, set down in a residential area," Coun. Gregory Cook charged last night.

TOO BIG

Coun. Leslie Passmore, who opposed an earlier plan by the company which involved only eight acres of the 70-acre site, has gone on record as saying: "The other one was too small; so far as I am concerned, this one is too big."

And S. A. Norman, 611 Sedger, who helped collect 130 signatures to a petition objecting to the first plan, last night promised "a really big petition this time."

SHOPPING CENTRE

The embattled company is Dominion Construction Co. Ltd. of Vancouver, which is building the Island's largest shopping centre on Saanich's old municipal yard site at Douglas and Trans-Canada Highway.

Originally the company proposed to build an industrial estate on 11 acres of meadowland bordered by Burnside, Admirals, the Trans-Canada Highway and Colquhoun Creek. The area was reduced to eight acres by provincial government planners to widen the highway.

Following spirited opposition from nearby residents, Saanich council rejected the scheme.

The new scheme—covering an area of 70 acres—includes the eight acres of meadowland and extends south to Ker Street, taking in the site of the Tillikum outdoor theatre.

Immediately opposite the area is an 11-acre site where a syndicate of Victoria and Vancouver businessmen plan to build a $1,000,000 garden apartment development with 120 two and three-bedroom units.

Coun. Cook said last night he will urge Saanich council to rezone the eight acres alongside the highway for farming use, to preserve a pleasant approach to Victoria.

PRIOR RIGHTS

"By doing this I think it would be possible to get the idea across that present residents of the area do have some prior rights," he said. "One of these is the right to protect their property against depreciation."

"Few tourists like to drive through industrial areas if they can enjoy the pastoral scene. Greater Victoria residents like to claim the importance of the tourist industry but don't do one thing to preserve it."

Mr. Norman said it would take at least a week to collect all the signatures for a new petition, protesting against the 70-acre scheme.

"It seems Saanich is divided into two parts—the 'haves' and the 'have-nots.' For the favored part, Cadboro Bay and Gordon Head it is parks and beautification. For us in the Burnside-Admirals Road area it is pole yards and industrialization."

"We feel we deserve some parks in this area before the land is all gone."

BROADSIDE

"The objection we made over the original scheme will seem like the firing of a saluting gun when compared to the broadside we are preparing to fire at this time," he said.

Dominion Construction has made application to have the 70-acre area rezoned to permit industrial use. The application is being considered by Saanich advisory planning commission. It has not yet been considered officially by Saanich council.

Agree to Set Charge

'Servants' Must Pay For Parking Space

Works Minister W. N. Chant said yesterday civil servants will have to pay for their parking facilities and the money collected will be used by the government to acquire additional off-street parking areas.

At the same time he said the provincial government had done a lot more for its employees in the matter of parking than either the federal or municipal governments.

"The federal government doesn't provide any parking facilities for its employees and the only people who have parking provided for them by the city are the aidmen," said Mr. Chant.

Mr. Chant was commenting on a suggestion by Ald. M. J. Griffin that more stringent parking restrictions be placed in the legislative buildings precinct.

NET CHARGE

Mr. Chant said provincial civil servants had agreed to a net charge for parking on the government parking lot at Government and Belleville.

"I hope there will not be any delays of an unusual or too-long nature," said the minister.

UNDERGROUND

Mr. Chant also said it was his personal opinion that there should be underground parking facilities provided under the proposed new provincial museum and archives which will be built on the present parking site.

No date has yet been set for the construction of this museum building.

Foul Bay Action Urged

Victoria, Saanich and Oak Bay municipal leaders were urged yesterday to get cracking on the rebuilding of Foul Bay Road over its full length.

Works Minister W. N. Chant said he was far from happy over the apparent lack of action on the project.

NO PROGRESS

"They've made no progress at all," he said. "They've talked about it but they're not coming to grips with the job."

The suggested plan was to rebuild the road in its entirety and rename it Universality Way.

Mr. Chant urged all municipal leaders to take another look at the project and said there was a possibility that a grant towards part of the cost would be made by the Capital Improvement District Commission.

Safety Impaired, Says Council

B.C. 'Weaseling Out' Of Cowichan Signal

NORTH COWICHAN — The department of highways is "weaseling out of its responsibility" by denying a request for the installation of a traffic light at the intersection of Trans-Canada Highway and James Street near Cowichan High School.

The charge was made by Coun. Tony Staples after a letter from the deputy minister was read citing six reasons why such a light could not be installed.

A traffic light was not considered necessary because a crosswalk with standard signs has been in place for a number of years; a department check on Jan. 6 between 3 and 4 p.m. showed that only 93 students crossed the highway; there is no school patrol; speed limit is 30 mph; during the check vehicle volume totalled 329 out of a daily average of 5,000; during 30 minutes of the official check, it was found to be absolutely safe for a pedestrian to cross in normal fashion.

The letter concluded that a volume of 300 to 400 vehicles justified crosswalks and signs only.

"They're just trying to weasel out of it," Coun. Staples said. "They forget that Alexander Junior High School will be open in September and there will be more children crossing the road than ever. And, the reason there is no school patrol at the crossing is because school officials do not feel it is a safe place for such a patrol."

Reeve Donald Morton said he was sorry the department did not go about its survey the way the municipality asked. "They should have contacted us first. I am just wondering if they made their traffic check at the busiest time."

The department will be advised.

Arrow Points To Confusion Says Council

NORTH COWICHAN — The department of highways has erected a directional sign in the municipality on Trans-Canada Highway, just north of Duncan, that is causing some confusion.

The sign, in the form of an arrow, reads "Somerset Lake Road."

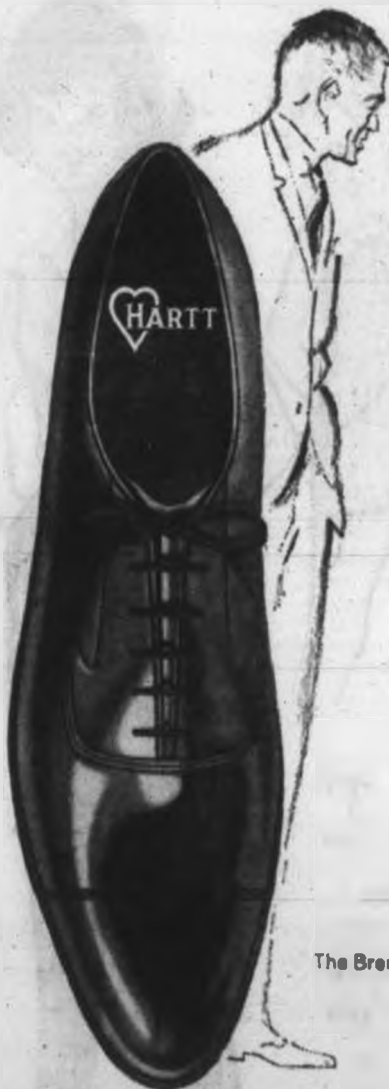

The road is actually a continuation of Drinkwater Road. "While it does lead right to Somerset Lake, it still is Drinkwater Road," said Coun. Tony Staples, chairman of public works committee.

The department will be advised.

Campbell Denies 'Politics' Charge On Comox Road

COURTENAY — Dan Campbell, Social Credit MLA for Comox, denied yesterday that the provincial government was making a political football of a proposed new road from Courtenay to Comox.

He was replying to comments of Mayor W. C. Moore on a letter received from Highways Minister P. A. Gallagher by the Chamber of Commerce here last week. The minister wrote that since the highway would greatly benefit the RCAF station at Comox, the department of national defence should share in the costs of construction.

Mayor Moore remarked to council that the letter was following a pattern.

USED AS EXCUSE
"If the provincial government doesn't want to do anything, the federal government is used as an excuse. It is political football again," he said.

Mr. Campbell said his government couldn't deal lightly with an expenditure that could amount to nearly $500,000 for the new road.

"B.C. wouldn't be doing its duty if we didn't approach the federal government to share the costs where there is a legitimate case," he said.

CUT TO FOUR
The new road would cut the present distance to the airport from Courtenay from nine miles to about four. A large part of the travel on it would be airport traffic, Mr. Campbell said.

Importance to the airport
Justified approaching the federal government just as city councils approach the provincial government on projects of mutual benefit," he said.

About $46,000 was spent by the provincial government last year in buying up right-of-way for the new road, the MLA said. It was only a matter of timing in making arrangements for construction although the minister of highways indicated no money had been set aside this year, he said.

'Long-Shot' Blast Hits Cleaning Plant

LAKE COWICHAN — An accident that "couldn't happen" ignored the odds here Wednesday when a dry cleaning machine at Roy's Cleaners, in the Smith Block, blew up.

Owner Roy MacQuarrie, who was operating the machine at the time, suffered minor burns to the face and arms.

Force of the explosion, believed to have been caused by a short circuit in the machine, blew out a window in the shop and shook the plant. Three garments were also destroyed.

Mrs. MacQuarrie said yesterday that all solvents used in the dry-cleaning process were synthetic and non-inflammable. "The manufacturers in Vancouver told us the odds on an accident like this were one in a thousand."

Despite the incident, the owners are carrying on business as usual.

Final Decision Tuesday

Courtenay Impresses B.C. Lions' Coaches

COURTENAY — Coach Wayne Robinson of the B.C. Lions football club said yesterday the club was "very interested in coming here" for summer training.

Robinson said leveling of the Lewis Park playing field would be one of the main keys in making a final decision.

Mayor W. C. Moore assured him and line coach Don Granby during a trip here Wednesday that work on the field would go ahead immediately, Robinson said.

The two coaches said arrangements made for hotel accommodation and meals for the team checked out as satisfactory.

Ald. George Hobson, city parks chairman, said workmen began cutting and rolling back sod in Lewis Park yesterday. Filling and grading likely will be completed and sod replaced in a matter of days, he said.

Final decision on location of the two-week camp in July will be made by May 1. Recommendation of the coaches will be made and the matter discussed in full detail at a meeting of B.C. Lions directors next Tuesday, he said.

Chinese Pledge Aid

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China's Mao Tse-tung Thursday sharply criticized "U.S. imperialistic aggression" against Cuba.

Even in Dart Windows, Pilots Vital

MONTREAL (CP)—People who get nervous when the pilot leaves his cabin in today's aircraft aren't likely to pay to fly in a pilotless steel dart guided only by far-away buttons.

And people with even a hint of claustrophobia—fear of enclosed space—might find a windowless tube a bit shattering.

These conclusions have given civil aviation experts the basis for unanimous agreement that pilots and windows will be vital in supersonic airliners.

Some 650 airline government agency and manufacturing representatives are in the midst of a week-long conference on supersonic air transport.

The experts come from 25 countries and represent 137 operators, designers and regulators.

Their object, as defined by the sponsoring International Air Transport Association, is to sketch the first supersonic airliner and its limits.

An airliner that can fly faster than sound is expected in the early 1970s. It may cruise as fast as 2,000 miles an hour.

Delegates are considering 374 questions on supersonic transport.

Windows, a refinement in a faster-than-sound craft that means redesigning to strengthen the fuselage, have been listed by psychology-conscious airlines as a necessity.

"No matter how much you change the aircraft, you aren't going to change people and therefore, you are not going to leave out windows and pilots," R. R. Shaw of Sydney, Australia, a Qantas Empire Airways executive, said Thursday.

Mr. Shaw said a pilot will be necessary because no matter how automatic the aircraft, it must also have a completely manual system in case of failure.

The first supersonic airliners have been described as long, slender, needle-nosed aircraft with delta-shaped wings near the rear.
